8 CHEETAHS TO ARRIVE IN INDIA FOR PM MODI'S BIRTHDAY

New Delhi: Eight cheetahs will arrive in India where they will be personally welcomed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on his birthday, in an ambitious project to reintroduce the big cats to the country. The five males and three females will arrive from Namibia on Saturday. India in the past was home to Asiatic cheetahs but the species was declared extinct domestically by 1952.

Pitched Kolkata battles as police foil BJP's stir

Several BJP leaders arrested while taking out a protest march to the state secretariat; 27 police personnel injured

PRONAB MONDAL @Kolkata

IN what appeared to be a rerun of its agitation two years ago, thousands of BJP supporters and hundreds of police personnel fought pitched battles at different parts of Kolkata and Howrah on Tuesday during the party's protest march towards Nabanna, the state secretariat, against alleged scams and corruption involving the ruling Trinamool functionaries.

A police vehicle was set ablaze and several supporters of the party and the police received injuries. The police lobbed tear gas shells and used water cannons to disperse BJP agitators who tried to go past the barricades on different roads leading to the state secretariat and pelted stones at the personnel in uniform.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee described the protest as a deflated balloon. "No need to give importance to it," she said dismissively.

At a violent BJP protest in 2020 a year after the party had dramatically raised its Lok Sabha seat tally to 18 from just two earlier, the police had applied similar methods to manage the crowds.

Tuesday's protest march is said to be the BJP's biggest ever since the arrests of Trinamool's ex-minister Partha Chatterjee and its strongman Anubrata Mondal by central enforcement agencies.

Several BJP leaders, including leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari, MP Locket Chatterjee, state president Sukanta Majumdar and former state president Rahul Sinha were intercepted by the police and arrested.

Adhikari alleged that Mamata had turned West Bengal into North Korea. "She does not have support, so she is enforcing dictatorship similar to North Korea," he charged.

Police lathicharge

The area in front of the BJP's headquarters in Kolkata resembled a battlefield. The police resorted to lathicharge to disperse the agitators. BJP councillor of Kolkata Municipal Corporation Meena Devi Purohit was among those injured

The BJP claimed at least 200 of its supporters were injured in police highhandedness and 50 of them had to be admitted to hospitals.

For its part, the police said 27 of its personnel were injured during crowd management and a hand of an assistant commissioner of police was fractured.

Traffic in east and central Kolkata was paralysed due to the agitation.

Sena attacks Shinde as Vedanta picks Gujarat to set up chip joint venture

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

MINING conglomerate Vedanta and Taiwanese electronics giant Foxconn's move to set up a semiconductor plant in Gujarat has put Maharashtra's Eknath Shinde government in a fix, with the Opposition tearing into it for losing the ₹1.5 lakh crore project, which would have created one lakh jobs in the state.

Former minister and Shiv Sena leader Subhash Desai said the Maha Vikas Aghadi government had worked hard to get the Foxconn-Vedanta project but the new government did not do the needful to seal the deal. "We had even finalised the Talegaon location near Pune for the semiconductor plant. Only the final agreement with Foxconn Vedanta was awaited. But, then, we lost power. The Shinde-Fadnavis government did not do anything to retain this project," Desai added. Blaming the BJP, he said the move to relocate such a big project would not happen without the Centre's interference.

"We had several meetings in this regard, but were surprised why the project has been taken away from Maharashtra to Gujarat," said Shiv Sena leader Aditya Thackeray. NCP leader Jayant Patil alleged the current CM and deputy CM are busy in addressing political rallies, while the BJP government in Gujarat is taking away big projects. Demanding a probe into the last-minute change in location of the project, MNS chief Raj Thackeray said big projects moving out from Maharashtra is not a good sign.

On Tuesday, Vedanta and Foxconn signed an MoU with the Gujarat government to set up a semiconductor assembling and testing unit on a 1,000-acre land in the state.

According to a study by the Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation, the state's Talegaon location would have been a better choice as it has ample water supply and better road, rail and air connectivity

EWS quota goes against equality, top court told

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

THE 103rd Constitutional amendment to grant 10% reservation for the economically weaker section (EWS) for admissions to educational institutions and jobs damages the heart of the Constitution, which is equality, petitioners told the Supreme Court on Tuesday.

The submission was made before a five-judge bench comprising Chief Justice U U Lalit and judges Dinesh Maheshwari, S R Bhat, Bela Trivedi and J B Pardiwala in a batch of pleas filed by NGO Janhit Abhiyan and others.

The pleas were referred to the Constitution bench by bench comprising the then CJI S A Bobde and judges R Subhash Reddy and B R Gavai on August 5, 2020.

Assailing the amendment, Professor Dr Mohan Gopal said the quota was a fraud on the Constitution. He said reservation was a tool of representation in the Constitution for backward groups, but the EWS quota confined the benefits of reservation only to "forward classes".

Senior advocate Meenakshi Arora argued that the amendment was violative of equality in a manner that it diluted the socially and educationally backward classes, which were the beneficiaries of reservation and violated the equality code. "It violates in a manner that it excludes particular segments and thus commitment to equality. For the first time we're having an explicit exclusion of the poorest of the poor and the most vulnerable. Procedure is also unequal and discriminatory," she added.

EE cuts power to pumphouse, saves lives

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

IT'S BLACK MAGIC IN TEMPLE OF LEARNING

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

In an irony of sorts, a case of black magic has come to light inside a department of the prestigious Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) in Mysuru, allegedly performed to keep a faculty member away.

A video of the incident, which has gone viral on social media, shows pieces of chicken smeared with 'kumkum' and other objects inside the room of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication of the varsity. It is believed that the magic was performed to take "revenge" against Tejasvi Naviloor, a faculty member, who was earlier serving as the head of the department.

Despite an anti-superstition law enforced in the state, academicians resorting to such practices has sent shockwaves among people, who said that such unscientific incidents send a wrong message to the society.

DEMOLITION DRIVE

18 PROPERTIES COME UNDER EARTHMOVERS

Walls, gates, parapets in Mahadevapura, Yelahanka demolished

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A day after sending a stern message to violators, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) continued with its demolition drive for the second consecutive day on Tuesday removing encroachments over storm water drains.

The BBMP demolished house compound walls and gates of 18 properties in Mahadevapura and Yelahanka zones, including a property belonging to Congress MLA NA Haris.

On Monday, of the 24 identified properties in and around AECS Layout in Mahadevapura, the BBMP demolished walls, gates and parapet walls of 15 properties.

The drive started at 11 am on Tuesday at Shantiniketan Layout, Papareddy Layout and Challaghatta in Mahadevapura zone and Satellite Town in Yelahanka zone. The Palike used 10 earthmovers, while BBMP engineers, revenue officers, marshals and police personnel were deployed in the areas to ensure that there was no threat from encroachers.

The BBMP stated that it will clear seven buildings and four compound walls in Shantiniketan Layout. In Papareddy Layout, the wall of an apartment cutting into the rajakaluve and four sheds built on the empty space of rajakaluve were removed. In Basavanapura, one compound wall and one empty space will be cleared.

BBMP Zonal Commissioner Dr KV Trilok Chandra said that in Challaghatta, the 2.5 metre width and 150.5 metre length of the rajakaluve has been encroached by the Nalapad Academy on Survey Number 70/14. Concrete slabs, the compound wall and fencing on the compound have been removed. Also 50 metres of the encroachment has been cleared, while the drive will continue.

The compound wall built by NCBS Institute encroaching into 120 metre length of the rajakaluve in the Satellite Town of Yelahanka zone was cleared. The drive was halted for a while after local residents picked up an argument with Palike officials. But police personnel and BBMP marshals ensured that the drive continued.

CET: KEA APPEALS AGAINST HC ORDER ON REPEATERS

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) has appealed against the recent Karnataka High Court order on repeaters. The court had pronounced that the entire CET evaluation should be redone after considering 50 per cent of pre-university certificate (PUC) score and 50 per cent of CET score for repeaters.

KEA Executive Director Ramya S told TNIE that the authority challenged the verdict in the high court on Monday. "KEA will take steps to ensure that students are not left behind academically. The verification process is expected to be completed by September 21. The All-India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) has given time till October 25 for counselling and students have one more month," she said.

But students are worried. One of them said, "It has become stressful for us. We don't know which college will accept us. We cannot go out of the state to study. We are waiting for KEA and Comed-K counselling processes to start."

A few freshers too raised concerns over ranks not being allotted yet. They said that though the results have been announced, the ranks are yet to be allotted. One student said some of her NRI friends have also not been given ranks.

Ramya said KEA is following the Supreme Court order on not including OCI (Overseas Citizenship of India) students, adding that KCET is only for residents of Karnataka.

Some students complained that KEA is not extending any assistance and their mails and repeated phone calls to the authority have not been answered. A student said, "I have made calls and written emails as well, but got no response."

KEA said all relevant information has been provided on its website. Ramya said it is not physically possible for the KEA call centre to answer every call and that most of the emails received this year have been answered.

Court order on delimitation on Sept 21

BENGALURU: The Karnataka High Court is likely to pass the orders on September 21, 2022, on a batch of petitions questioning the notification issued by the Urban Development Department for delimitation of 243 wards of the Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike.

Justice Hemant Chandangoudar passed the order to list the matters on the said date as arguments concluded by the parties. SD Gururaj of Shanthinagar Block Congress Committee, S Ismail Zabiulla and others challenged the notification dated July 14, 2022.

The court orally indicated that there may be minor irregularities or discrepancies as the notification is a complex process and elections needs to be conducted to BBMP as two years have lapsed already, after the expiry of the council.

The counsels of the petitioners submitted that they need sometime to furnish the judgements of the apex court in support of their petitions.

'No need to serve notices to clear encroachments'

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Revenue Department and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) have started encroachment clearance drive by demolishing properties as per High Court directions.

Members of the National Green Tribunal (NGT) committee pointed out that there is no need to serve notices to clear properties standing on water bodies and along buffer zones. However notices are issued only as a legal procedure to inform the person.

On the issue of flooding which wrecked havoc in parts of East Bengaluru, a senior committee member, seeking anonymity, told The New Indian Express, "Had the tenure of the committee continued for another year and had the state government officials done as per directed, then flooding and damages in these regions would have been 50 per cent lesser."

The committee was formed by the NGT to look into the fire and pollution of two prime lakes -- Bellandur and Varthur -- and ensure that they are desilted and the lakes, wetlands and buffer zones are protected. The tenure of the committee ended in 2021.

The member pointed out that encroachment is not the only problem. It is also the capacity of the storm water drain, which the BBMP and urban development department officials are brushing under the mat. The width of the drains has been shrunk, there are no percolation pits, so when there is over 170 mm rainfall, one cannot expect the drains to carry all the water.

"Another major issue is the land use. Mahadevapura and surrounding areas were created in the last 20-25 years on agricultural and paddy fields. These areas are at a lower height and are plains compared to areas like Mahadeshwaranagar or Lalbagh or others, where there are undulations and elevations. So traditionally all the run-off water from such areas would flow down to these plains and stagnate. The same happened even now. The flooding problem was not in areas where water was flowing, but where it was stagnant," the member said.

"IT meant that much of Bengaluru's water supply would get disrupted. I called up the Additional Chief Engineer and Chief Engineer and took their consent," he added. Calls were later made to KPTCL officials to switch off power supply completely, and the Fire department was alerted to reach the spot for support.

Reliving the ordeal, Naresh, who spent most of his working life at TK Halli since joining BWSSB in 2011, said, "The readings that morning were showing high flood level in the Bhima, at 588.63 metres. The maximum level for safety is 585.95m. Our pumphouse, with mega pumps 23ft below ground level, was flooded and water had risen one foot above the ground. It was a frightening situation."

The flooded TK Halli, Stage III Pump House | EXPRESS

The crisis followed a power failure at Tataguni the previous night, which had forced them to shut down the pumps for 15 minutes around midnight, and restart them. There were 15 employees at the pumphouse, including electricians, helpers, fitters and welders at the time.

BWSSB Chairman N Jayaram lauded Naresh and his team for their smart work.

Jayaram, who camped at TK Halli till the situation was normalised, said, "A total of 270 staffers spent two sleepless nights to ensure Bengaluru got back water supply. We thought it would take us a week or 10 days, but it took 40 hours."

Restoration involved tedious processes, including dewatering, clearing sludge, bringing spare parts and mega motors from other pumping stations in trailers to TK Halli, extricating the existing ones and replacing them, he explained.

PETER VIDAL

14TH September: The fact that Jupiter, that most hopeful of planets, is so excitable, must boost general confidence levels, yet, over the next few weeks, many of us are due to meet a number of unexpected challenges to our security. This is why we must consciously keep our spirits up, putting forward a cheerful face whenever we can!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Who has a right to say what is or is not possible for you? Certainly, nobody will know what's good for you better than you, though some will imagine that they do. A tactful approach may serve you best, especially as you'll find some very useful advice in amongst partners' claims and comments.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
An emotional storm will have been whipped up before the week is over. Probably everything will revolve around a few silly misunderstandings, and in that case you can put them right yourself. Your ideas are good, even when you're not quite sure of the facts, so test your thoughts out privately before you go public.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Do keep an eye out for children who may be in difficulties or straying from the straight and narrow. For your own part, do be aware of any sudden desire to throw caution to the wind. You must decide whether you are truly ready for the consequences. If you're not, then hold back.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Are you suffering from divided loyalties? Is someone in the family drawing you in a different direction to the one you've chosen? Look upon this as a rich period in which to come to a new personal understanding. And that includes gaining a fresh perspective on your own hidden desires.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Lunar alignments do seem to be so utterly secretive. Rather than keep thoughts and feelings to yourself, why not ask what makes you so very reluctant to reveal certain important hopes. Is it that you think that other people just aren't ready to hear what you have to say?

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Can you afford to make an error of judgment now? I think not. You see, the critical planets are lined up in such a position that, if you take a risk and lose, you will be hit in the wallet. Actually you're in for an extravagant year, which is precisely why you should exert tight controls.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Even small, minor and trivial events will eventually assume a deep long-term significance. Give current developments time to unfold and wait for the consequences to be resolved before reaching a final judgment. You may have to wait a little longer for the position to be absolutely clear.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Telepathy may offer a better means of communication than plain speech, such is the potential for misunderstanding. It may be best to mix with people who are capable of tuning in to your subtle way of doing things. Perhaps you should write things down and see how they look on paper!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Socially your current stars really couldn't be better. Don't let considerations of cost come between you and a hoped-for invitation or outing. If you want to make your first billion, then think laterally: the answers to your questions may be right under your nose!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Today is not going to be easy, but it could be useful. What is required of you is a willingness to put yourself in someone else's shoes and a readiness to change your plans. What's more, a valuable new friendship could be born out of current chance encounters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You want to get your own way, and with the planets so favourably aligned to your sign you probably will. The only qualification is that you must do the donkey-work yourself; nobody else is going to do it for you. One other word though - just because you think you're right, that doesn't mean that you are right!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Many Pisceans adopt a rather disdainful attitude towards money, mainly because they find it so difficult to understand. Yet if you make the right moves now, you will certainly end up wealthier in the long run. Agreements work best if you're looking at long-term results.

Sacked lecturer abuses principal, in the dock

He is accused of indecent behaviour with women staffers, students

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

FRUSTRATED after being sacked from his job in a college for his indecent behaviour with women staffers and girl students, a 36-year-old lecturer is alleged to have threatened and abused the college principal by calling her from different phone numbers. The suspect is also alleged to have posted derogatory posts and comments about the college on social media.

S Mohan Kumar, a Physics lecturer and a native of Madhugiri in Tumakuru, was removed from his job in February 2022 by the college management.

Kumar had allegedly flouted rules and regulations of the college, following which the principal filed a complaint against him, seeking police intervention to stop the harassment. The private college, run by a reputed trust and located in Somanahalli on Kanakapura Road, has multiple branches in and around Bengaluru. The principal refused to comment on the issue, though she admitted to filing the complaint.

Mohan Kumar was reportedly troubling the principal, aged 40, for the past six months. He is alleged to have called her at odd hours and threatened her with dire consequences for getting him removed from the job. After the matter was brought to the notice of the management, a police complaint was filed against him in the jurisdictional Kaggalipura police station.

"The complaint was registered on Saturday. The case is still under investigation. We will arrest the lecturer shortly. The complainant said he would call her from different numbers and abuse her," said an officer who is part of investigations.

A case of intending to outrage the modesty of a woman (IPC 354) and criminal intimidation (IPC 506) was registered against the suspect. When contacted, the college principal declined to comment, saying that she is not authorised to speak without permission from the college president and secretary. Investigations are on.

CITY DOCS GIVE KIDNEY-AFFECTED FARMER A NEW LEASE OF LIFE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THIS 25-year-old farmer Suresh (name changed) was born with a congenital rare neurogenic bladder issue or dysfunctional bladder. His parents had to rush him to hospital every time his bladder was full and urine had to be drained out ever since he was one-and-a-half-years-old till he was 13. Later, he used a catheter to drain out his urine. The horrific effect of the procedure was that he developed Chronic Kidney Disease when he was 10 and he had to undergo dialysis for one-and-a-half years. Later he was told to go for a kidney transplant.

His 40-year-old mother donated her kidney and a team of doctors from Apollo Hospital not only transplanted the kidney, but also performed a bladder surgery. Now, he can pass urine without a catheter and lead a normal life, said Dr Arun Kumar N, nephrologist, and Dr Manohar T, urologist and transplant surgeon, Apollo Hospital, who treated him.

Neurogenic bladder is rare and is seen in hardly 2-3 per cent of the population. Suresh had developed the problem because of the consanguineous marriage of his parents. The surgical procedure involved relieving the obstruction in urethra. The kidney transplant was done without induction (a medicine given for suppressing the immunity before renal transplant so the donor kidney is accepted) with a proper scientific approach, which is also rare.

Live organ donations have risen by 25-30 per cent in the past five years. Now in the state, 45 per cent of the procedures are live donations and 55 per cent cadaver donations, Dr Arun Kumar said.

Removal of encroachments taking time: CM

'Rs 1,800 cr sanctioned; will keep allocating funds to complete drain works in Bengaluru'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday said on the floor of the Assembly that the state government is committed to develop the entire 859 km stretch of storm water drains in Bengaluru in a time-bound manner. Encroachments are delaying the development of drains and they will be removed without yielding to any pressure, he asserted.

Replying to Congress MLA Krishna Byregowda, who raised the issue of drains in Bengaluru, Bommai said the storm water drain work has been going on in Bengaluru for the last 20 years. Of the 859 km stretch, 400 km has been developed. "Recently, I sanctioned Rs 1,500 crore and additional Rs 300 crore for drain and other works. The works we have sanctioned will take two years to develop and it also involves removal of encroachments, which is taking time. The drain work that is going on now was sanctioned during your (Siddaramaiah's) period. This time, Bengaluru also received more rain causing floods in a few pockets," he said.

"We will take up crucial works on priority. The funds allocated now will not be sufficient. But we will keep allocating funds for the works to be completed," he added.

Of the eight zones in the city, only two have issues with storm water drains, especially Mahadevapura zone, where water is flowing from 69 lakes, he said.

Krishna Byregowda earlier said that Bommai had announced that he would release Rs 1,500 crore last year, but the work has not started. "If we had taken up the works and developed the drains, the flooding would not have happened. Many properties were damaged and human lives lost. It affected Brand Bengaluru too. If drains are developed, 80 per cent of issues will be resolved" he said. He urged the state government to develop drains on priority and that will be an asset.

> Bengaluru got more rain causing floods in a few pockets. We will take up crucial works on priority. Funds allocated now will not be sufficient. We will keep allocating funds to complete the works
> Basavaraj Bommai, CM

BJP MLA from Mahadevapura Aravind Limbavali said they will continue to clear encroachments. "There are many big buildings in Mahadevapura and many of them do not have rainwater harvesting. Water is overflowing from over 60 lakes to our area," he added.

Bommai said they have approved installation of sluice gates at lakes to control flooding. The storm water drain master plan will be redrawn and with additions if required, he added.

CM Basavaraj Bommai and Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah in a heated argument in the Assembly on Tuesday

BJP, Cong spar over Siddu's boat ride

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Assembly on Tuesday witnessed a banter regarding Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah's recent visit to a flooded locality in Bengaluru's IT corridor by a boat.

It all began when Siddaramaiah initiated a debate on the recent rains and floods in Karnataka, especially in Bengaluru. The former Chief Minister said he had to take a boat to reach the flooded villas of Epsilon Layout in Mahadevapura.

In a lighter vein, CM Basavaraj Bommai said the boat ride was in just 1.5 ft water. "I walked on the surface where water has been stagnant for 3 feet. Someone might have misguided Siddaramaiah. We had kept boats for the public. It is absolutely fine if Siddaramiah uses it," he said.

Adding to this, Revenue Minister R Ashoka said as Siddaramiah was wearing a 'panche' (dhoti), he preferred to take a boat. Irked by this, Congress members said when people are suffering due to floods, the ruling party members are mocking. "I did not use my personal boat. It was an NDRF boat.

There was water for 5 ft and I took a boat ride for 500 m," Siddaramiah said. Intervening, BJP MLA for Mahadevapura Arvind Limbavali said Bommai had inspected the floods in the same locality on foot. "Maybe Siddaramiah is aging and had to take a boat... Bommai is young and it was easy for him to walk," he quipped.

Further, Bommai said he had seen visuals of Siddaramaiah on the boat and NDRF personnel pushing it.

Earlier, Siddaramaiah took the government to task for not looking into the recommendations made by the Environmental Management and Policy Research Institute which spoke about climate change and changing rainfall pattern.

Home Minister Araga Jnanendra said that the State Government has zero tolerance toward drug peddling

NDPS case against those consuming drugs, warns Araga

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HOME Minister Araga Jnanendra said that the State Government has zero tolerance toward drug peddling and warned that not only drug peddlers but even those consuming drugs will be booked under the NDPS Act.

Congress MLC Prakash Rathod raised the issue of the growing menace of drug peddling in urban cities of Karnataka in the Council and several members joined him to urge the government to chalk out stringent measures against drug peddling. Rathod said drug peddlers were dumping drugs at vacant sites to avoid getting caught and shared the location with customers who collected them later. Manjunath Bhandary said Mangaluru is an education hub and paying guest accommodations were in large numbers, and the police must keep a tab on PGs to check drug peddling, while M Nagaraj said drug consumption among youngsters was also leading them to commit other crimes like murders and chain snatching. Madhu G Madegowda joined them saying the social evil was not limited to urban areas but had also reached the rural parts of the state. Marithibbegowda said hookah bars were the centres for drug peddling.

Jnanendra said that the police were cracking down on drug peddling but still it was not possible to weed out it completely. "Now, we are also booking those who consume drugs under the NDPS Act. Medical tests can determine which drugs they have consumed in the last 30 days and based on that stringent action is being initiated against those who indulge in drug abuse". He said that drug peddlers are also being being booked under the PIT-NDPS-1988 Act and the properties of repeat offenders were seized in some cases.

Depositors will get better protection, Bill seeks to empower special courts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE BJP government on Tuesday tabled a clutch of bills which were promulgated as ordinances in May, and will be replaced with legislations.

The Karnataka Protection of Interest of Depositors in Financial Establishments (Amendment) Bill, 2022, was tabled to amend the 2004 Act (Karnataka Act 30 of 2005) to replace an ordinance. The bill seeks to empower special courts to try the accused, who may be charged under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, at the same trial. As the matter was urgent and both Houses of legislature were not in session, the Karnataka Protection of Interest of Depositors in Financial Establishments (Amendment) Ordinance, 2022 (May 4, 2022) was promulgated. Now, the Bill seeks to replace the ordinance. Any offence under the Act is cognizable and non-bailable, if multiple FIRs are registered either in one police station or various police stations, for fraud.

BILL FOR E-PAYMENTS IN SILK COCOON MARKETS

A Bill to amend the Karnataka Silkworm Seed, Cocoon and Silk Yarn (Regulation of Production, Supply, Distribution and Sale) Act, 1959 (Karnataka Act 5 of 1960) was introduced to provide for sale or purchase of cocoons by open auction or e-auction, and to pay the price in cash, through ECS, RTGS or NEFT.

More time to apply for regularisation

A bill to extend time for application by a year, from the date of it becoming an Act, for regularisation of unauthorised cultivation of government lands, was also tabled. A provision was made to allow applications from March 17, 2018, to March 16, 2019, for those lands which were being cultivated prior to January 1, 2005, but applications were not received from March 2019 due to the model code of conduct which was in place for General Elections.

Exemption for plan sanction

The Karnataka Municipalities (Amendment) Bill, 2002, was tabled to remove technical difficulties in obtaining building plan sanction in areas which do not fall under the jurisdiction of local planning authorities. The Karnataka Municipalities Act, 1964 (Karnataka Act 22 of 1964) needs to be amended to exempt taking approval for building plans in rural areas, from the Department of Town and Country Planning.

'3 firms ready to take over scam-hit bank'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

MINISTER for Cooperation ST Somashekhar said three institutions have come forward to take over the Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamita (SGRSBN) and the Expression of Interest (EOI) has been submitted to the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

Congress MLC UB Venkatesh raised the issue during the calling attention motion and said thousands of depositors of SGRSBN and Sri Vasishta Souharda Bank were left in the lurch as there was no progress in the investigation.

He said that the auditing process was taking a lot of time and it had come in the way of reconstructing the bank. "The government should take the issue seriously. Around 90 depositors have already passed away and many are finding it difficult to even buy medicines. They are waiting for some relief and the government must return their money by auctioning seized properties," he said.

In his reply, the minister said the matter was being probed by the CID and necessary information is also being passed on to the CBI and ED. "Jaswant Reddy and Ranjit Reddy, who are the highest borrowers, have fled the country and we have approached the CBI to issue a red corner notice against them. Besides, 24 other highest borrowers to whom Rs. 892.85 crores have been given have been issued a notice".

Crop loss aid in 2 days: CM

ENS @ Bengaluru

CM Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday told the Assembly that compensation for crop loss will be distributed in two days in areas where survey is complete.

Leader of Opposition Siddaramiah alleged that not a single rupee has been paid as compensation for crop loss this year. "This year, as per the latest memorandum given by the State Government to the Centre, 5.8 lakh hectares of agriculture land have been submerged and over 24,000 houses are damaged. Sowing on 11 lakh hectares has not been taken up this year. Farmers are facing heavy losses," he said.

Bommai said, "Since it has been raining we could not take up surveys in several places. We have completed surveys at some places. We will release compensation within two days wherever the survey is completed."

'EGG ATTACK' ON SIDDU REFUSES TO DIE DOWN

The Assembly on Tuesday witnessed a furore over the issue of eggs being hurled at Leader of Opposition Siddarmaaiah's car at Guddehosuru of Kushalnagar taluk of Kodagu district during his visit to rain-affected areas.Siddaramaiah made a direct attack on BJP MLA Appachu Ranjan alleging that BJP sponsored the attack on him. Another BJP MLA K G Bopaiah alleged that Siddaramaiah invited the wrath of the people as he instigated them insulting VD Savarkar and glorifying Tipu Sultan. "It is your party leaders who threw eggs at you," alleged Appachu. Taking strong exception, Siddarmaiah tried to corner Appachu alleging that he had gone to the police station to get the accused released. Intervening, Home Minister Araga Jnanendra clarified that police arrested the accused immediately. "Gali Janardhan Reddy had challenged me to visit Ballari. Similarly, Bopaiah challenged me (to visit Kodagu). If not for imposition of Section 144, things would have been different," Siddarmaiah remarked while referring to a Congress rally planned in Kodagu but cancelled due to prohibitory orders.

ANGANWADI WORKERS WILL BE TRAINED TO IMPLEMENT NEP

Minister of Women and Child Development and Mines and Geology Halappa Achar on Tuesday informed the Council that the State Government will not recruit new teachers for implementing the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 in anganwadis and that instead anganwadi workers will be provided with the required training. Responding to MLC Govindraju's question, Achar said the government will implement the NEP 2020 in 20,000 anganwadi centres Karnataka. He said six months to one-year diploma training will be provided to anganwadi workers and no new teachers will be recruited for the same.

OPTION TO TAKE NUTRITIOUS FOOD HOME UNDER MATHRU POORNA SCHEME

The State Government has decided to allow food provided to meet the nutritional needs of pregnant and lactating women in rural areas under the Mathru Poorna scheme to be taken to their houses. Minister of Women and Child Development Halappa Achar informed the Council that under the scheme, nutritious food is prepared and served to pregnant and lactating women at anganwadi centres. Achar said difficulties in implementing the scheme in hilly areas in Dakshina Kannada and Udupi districts have come to the government's notice. The number of beneficiaries under the scheme dropped significantly as it had become difficult for women to come to anganwadi centres in those areas to have food, he said. The government allowed family members to take food prepared for pregnant and lactating women from anganwadi centres to their houses, he said. Achar also said they have issued directives to provide take-home rations under the scheme in Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, Uttara Kannada, Kodagu, Chikkamagaluru, and Hassan districts. Many MLCs from the BJP and Congress urged the minister to provide take-home rations in all districts as pregnant and lactating women find it very difficult to go to anganwadi centres for food.

MARX TEJASWI @ Shivamogga

THE Shivamogga constituency is expected to witness a curious fight in the 2023 Assembly elections if renowned paediatrician Dr Dhananjaya Sarji, who has expressed his desire to enter politics, ends up contesting the election.

It is unclear whether Dr Sarji will contest on a BJP ticket or as an independent. But, already sitting party MLA KS Eshwarappa has hinted that he will contest if the party high command asks him to. In Congress, former MLA KB Prasanna Kumar and District Congress president HS Sundaresh are among many other aspirants for the party ticket.

Dr Sarji is the founder of Sarji Hospital and Sarji Superspecialty Hospital besides the charitable trust Sarji Foundation. Though it was just a rumour earlier, he cleared the air on Monday by declaring that he would indeed enter politics.

On Monday, using his birthday celebration as an occasion, the 45-year-old paediatrician expressed his intention to enter politics. "Many people were asking me why am I doing all these social activities and why can't I restrict myself to my profession. I too had such questions in my mind. Many advised me not to enter social service or politics. Prime Minister Modi wants the educated and honest people to enter politics. After thorough discussions, I have decided to start a new life," he said.

MLC Rudre Gouda and RSS leader Pattabhiram were among those who shared the dais with Dr Sarji.

Dr Sarji told TNIE that it is too early to say which party he will contest from. "Discussions have not started. But I want to serve the people even more," he said.

A group of faculty members from NITK Suratkal led by Dr Babloo Chaudhary, Assistant Prof, Department of Civil Engineering, is working on the development of new techniques to protect the Indian coasts from tsunami as part of an R&D project sponsored by the Ministry of Ports, Shipping and Waterways. A press release stated that NITK has been awarded a research grant of ₹45 lakh. Prof Katta Venkataramana and Dr G Sridhar are co-investigators.

Activists fear illegal mining after SC order

KIRAN BALLANNANAVAR @ Ballari

RAISING of ceiling limit of mining in Ballari, Tumakuru and Chitradurga districts by the Supreme Court assures a hike in revenue collection for the state, but the activists are perturbed that the move will result in illegal mining.

The miseries of rampant illegal mining still haunt the people, who were relieved when the top court put a blanket ban on iron ore mining in the state in 2011.

Last month, the Supreme Court allowed raising the ceiling of mining for Ballari district from 28 MMT to 35 MMT, and for Chitradurga and Tumakuru districts from 7 MMT to 15 MMT. Mining Department officials have passed an order for ramping up mining activities, with the mining companies happy on one hand, and activists demanding that it be allowed in a legal way on the other. Tapal Ganesh, a mining activist, said that the Supreme Court's order to relax the ceiling limit was a welcome step, but we are worried about illegal mining.

"We need iron ore to build infrastructure but companies must function legally. It's our duty to save forest for the next generation," he added.

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

PERSISTENT INFLATION CONTINUES TO ERODE PURCHASING POWER

The just-released August figures show retail inflation has risen significantly to 7% from 6.7% in the previous month. This is worrisome as the decline in inflation over the last three months has reversed sharply on the back of rising food prices. Though fuel inflation somewhat softened to 10.78% from 11.76% with the drop in international crude prices, food inflation in August 2022 rose sharply to 7.62% from the previous month's 6.75% as vegetables, pulses and cereals moved up. It appears the government's anti-inflationary measures, like the ban on wheat exports in May, are not working. This is the eighth consecutive month in which the retail Consumer Price Index (CPI) has held up beyond the tolerance band of 2–6% and reflects the hardship the poor are bearing from spiralling food prices.

The increase in the inflation rate in August will only harden the Reserve Bank of India policy for increasing the interest rates on borrowings to bring down the money supply and thereby tame inflation. RBI has raised interest rates by 1.4% in tranches so far this year. This is not good news for growth and production, which ride on an easy and cheap flow of credit. It's a double whammy, too, as industrial production simultaneously slowed in August. The National Statistical Office announced that the Index of Industrial Production had fallen to 2.4% in July from 12.7% in the preceding month, mainly hit by lower mining output (-3.3%).

The crucial question is: will the government's countermeasures work? After it banned wheat exports in May, the Centre has now stopped all exports of broken rice and imposed a 20% duty on the export of various grades of rice from September 9. Edible oil and steel prices too have been reined in. However, the erratic and deficient monsoons have lowered production and perhaps even delayed rabi planting. Economists are therefore predicting the above 6% inflation rate will persist for some time and may only see a reversal in Q4—the January-March period next year. More worrisome is the fact that the inflation rate in rural areas is higher at 7.15%. Such high inflation over a prolonged period of time significantly erodes the purchasing power of the people and increases their pain; it, therefore, calls for more intense intervention by the State.

TACKLE ODISHA DRUGS MENACE ON PRIORITY

Odisha has earned a distinction in India for one of the highest hauls of narcotic drugs, especially cannabis. The volume of ganja alone stood at a staggering 1.67 lakh kilos in 2021. Drug seizures from the state spiralled from 50,000-odd kilos in 2018 to over a lakh kilos in four years. There are two sides to it. The massive haul by state agencies like Special Task Force (STF), Excise, Police and central bodies such as Narcotics Control Bureau and Directorate of Revenue Intelligence means there is an increased crackdown against production and supply sources in the state.

Cannabis, primarily grown in tribal districts, flourished under the protection of the Left Wing Maoist outfits. With the Naxal footprints on the wane, production volume is expected to come down substantially. It's a massive industry that feeds demands from north India. Suppliers from districts like Malkangiri have found ways to escape through multiple state borders to reach their destinations as far as Rajasthan. With the Ministry of Home Affairs flagging the issue, the state administration has doubled its efforts to go after the growers and traffickers, which deserves appreciation.

However, the grim side is the growing footprint of heroin in the state. In 2021, the STF seized over 55 kilos of contraband; by June this year, another 23 kilos had already been confiscated. Much of the trade is confined to Odisha's coastal pockets, with a large chunk of supply ending up in Bhubaneswar. The concentration of educational institutes—close to 100 professional colleges with over half a lakh students—has attracted organised trade, with delivery only a phone call away. The consequences are for all to see as there is an uptick in drug-trade-related violence in the state capital while rehabilitation centres are busy dealing with people seeking support. Suicides from drug addiction are another dark and ugly facet of the menace. The trade from across international borders runs through West Bengal, and even strict enforcement has not helped. This calls for urgent efforts from the state government to arrest the trend. It must not only strengthen policing mechanisms and intelligence to crack down and uproot all the trade networks but also bring stakeholders together to prevent the youth from falling into the death trap.

QUICK TAKE

OUTSOURCING CHOICES TO AI

Familiarising students with Artificial Intelligence is one thing. Allowing AI to choose higher education subjects for them is another. That's how a digitised future may look in a while. Tech scientists say algorithms are experimenting with students' data to recommend courses that best suit them. It may soon be passé to think that leaving subject choices to a mouse click amounts to de-humanising the process of choosing through parental advice or professional counselling. Choosing preferred college subjects determines students' career paths and can often influence destinies. Leaving such crucial decisions to a data cruncher is a new frontier to cross.

To recover dissent is to reinvent democracy. There is a playfulness about it dogmatic regimes cannot tolerate

DISSENT AND THE REINVENTION OF DEMOCRACY

SHIV VISVANATHAN
Social scientist associated with THE COMPOST HEAP, a group researching alternative imaginations

SOURAV ROY

Some regimes have facades which are difficult to read. Other regimes are easy to confront; they enact the ideologies they claim to follow. A totalitarian regime has brutal clarity, while a majoritarian regime does not. Its strength lies in its ability to manipulate the very sense of democracy, the power of numbers. Its authoritarianism has a subtlety that one needs to grasp. It banalises brutality and bullying. Violence is presented as an official ritual, a spectacle to consume, and even acquires a seasonal quality like urban displacements. One even feels smug while predicting it. Its arrest of people has a stylised format as if it is inaugurating a set of initiation rites, creating a new class of people. Such activities leave ordinary citizens confused. They consume the event in silence, sensing the threat but unable to grasp it theoretically.

This regime has been strategic in its handling of dissent. It coins words for which it demands loyalty and consensus. Patriotism is one such word; development is another; security is sacrosanct. And then, in the name of these three sacred words, it can conduct any atrocity. To question it is to question the very civics of official beings.

Secondly, it has vitiated the meaning of elections. As a ritual, it has become arid and a mere number's game without the accompanying sense of the debate. Elections merely become a power game losing their sense of the normative. A defeated opposition becomes an obsolescent opposition. In fact, the Congress, once compared to a banyan-like metaphor, has shrunk to become a joke we all seem to participate in.

Thirdly, the regime summons its legitimacy strategically to create a law and order framework. Obedience becomes a civitas, and all programs project a sense of civic duty. To question duty is to court disobedience. The regime can banalise protest while redefining it. The myth of Shaheen Bagh, the great legendary protest in Delhi, was reworked as a traffic problem. Protest can never officially have priority over traffic.

The regime also has a method for tackling dissent, slicing it into separate silos, each of which it isolates and eliminates. This regime created four silos of dissent and tackled it ruthlessly by sanitising each domain. It first attacked environmental groups which were opposed to development, especially in the border areas. Dissent became a double threat to security and development and, therefore, doubly objectionable.

It created a post-truth myth in constructing the urban Naxal. Human rights activists who cared and fought for the marginal were demonised. One has to merely think of Stan Swamy or Sudha Bharadwaj.

Recently it was decided that human rights activists were hysterical creatures who cooked up evidence against the regime. Suddenly, Teesta Setalvad and former DGP Sreekumar, from being dedicated activists in the pursuit of justice, became irrelevant, prolonging cases beyond necessity. When they were arrested, there was hardly a protest. A few run-of-the-mill letters to the editor and a cosy demonstration. What was impressive as a spectacle was the accompanying silence. It was tacit support of citizenship as spectatorship and not the disquiet of democracy one heard.

Even more confidently, last week, the regime raided the Centre for Policy Research, a leading think tank, and made it sound like an act of obligation, a clerical routine of civics rather than a threat to any attempt by the researchers to think of alternative worlds for democracy.

It is the silence of citizenship that is disquieting. It is eerie to watch the lack of public response to the atrocities of the regime. In fact, in an Orwellian style, the regime is able to impoverish and emasculate dissent as an adolescent phenomenon, as a set of bad manners, as impudence, as hysteria conducted by marginal groups. Subtly, it has become an imaginary double of the anti-national. The citizen becomes a chorus, a mob demanding that the dissenters be punished as spoilt children of democracy. As one dissenter told me, "Today, one cannot be Indian without being anti-national." Dissent is no longer a part of the ritual of democracy. Majoritarian democracy as an ecology of ideas is monocultural. It has no place for dissent. How does one respond in a situation like this?

There is only one way to confront the fact that dissent has been the major casualty of majoritarian democracy and its urge to promote monolingual politics. To recover dissent is to reinvent democracy. There is a playfulness about dissent that dogmatic regimes cannot tolerate. It breaks the servility of dominance. This is why in folklore, the clown and the trickster were parts of the dissenting imagination. Dissent digs deep into the thought systems, into the humus of democratic thought. Dissent is deeply tied to the fate of knowledge in society. Even a university, as the sociologist Patrick Geddes pointed out, evolves from dissenting academies. A university makes possible a dissenting civics of knowledge. Both democracy and knowledge dull out without difference, and dissent makes the different creative and possible.

India today is running out of ideas as it is cast in the mediocrity of uniformity. Dissent is a trusteeship of the future of alternatives. It is pedagogically vital for understanding thought systems. Dissent, in that sense, creates diversity, the ecologies of thought modern democracies need. It is a craft that pedagogy has to teach from childhood. By keeping alternatives alive, dissent keeps alternative worlds and possibilities alive. The BJP has created an officialdom of correctness that one has to challenge. Dissent adds to the theatre of political life, creates a new plot, and adds to the ethics and unexpected quality of life. It prevents democracy from being banalised or desiccated. In that sense, dissent always carries the seeds of untold futures. This is why we need dissenting imaginations as discourses, paradoxes, and as new forms of storytelling. This regime fears dissent because it fears alternatives. It fears playfulness and is afraid of the future. Today, dissent has become an urgent civic duty. Civil society has to invent it as an alternative to the banality of official patriotism. This is the challenge of today's politics.

DOES INDIA BELONG IN THE SCO

P S RAGHAVAN
Distinguished Fellow, Vivekananda International Foundation, and former diplomat

When Prime Minister Narendra Modi visits Uzbekistan for the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) summit on September 15–16, he will come face to face with Chinese President Xi Jinping for the first time since the India-China face-off in Ladakh commenced in 2020. Despite continuing bilateral talks at various official levels, the disengagement of troops from the Line of Actual Control on both sides has made only halting progress. Officials of the two countries are downplaying the possibility of a formal bilateral meeting of their leaders. India's External Affairs Minister recently reiterated that the state of the relationship will be determined by the state of the border. But speculations continue to circulate that there may be a brief courtesy meeting. Time will tell.

Modi will also see Russian President Vladimir Putin in person for the first time after the latter sent his army into Ukraine in February. India took an independent line on the invasion, not condemning it and continuing to do business (figuratively and literally) with Russia. If they meet, the atmosphere would be different from that of a Modi-Xi meeting (should it take place), but India would probably like to gauge what the Russian leader's endgame is, and his assessment of that of Ukraine and NATO.

There is little doubt that Putin and Xi will meet. The Russia-China embrace has attracted global attention, particularly after the Ukraine war started. Their relationship has blossomed in recent decades, after a border settlement enabled them to move beyond a history of fierce rivalry and military clashes. The partnership, which grew from economic complementarities and convergent political interests, was cemented by deteriorating Russia-West relations after the Crimean annexation of 2014 and intensifying US-China acrimony. They now claim a friendship without limits, including political solidarity and defence cooperation in sophisticated military technologies. A perception of Russia's irreversible dependence on China informs the view of some at home and many outside that India's foreign policy should make a strategic shift away from Russia and towards the West.

Joining this trio in the SCO are four Central Asian countries wedged between Russia and China, resources-rich, landlocked (together with the Caspian Sea), and dependent on their big neighbours for trade, transit, growth and security.

The SCO was formed in 2001, to promote political, economic and security cooperation among its members. Its development was naturally influenced by the evolving geopolitics of the region and its interactions with the external world. The original idea of articulating a non-West (as distinct from an anti-West) perspective, promoting a multipolar world, had already given way to a less coherent narrative by the time India and Pakistan joined SCO in 2017. Their accession expanded SCO's geographical reach and economic base, but also brought in divergent approaches to global issues. When Iran joins the SCO at the forthcoming summit, its cohesion will inevitably be diluted further.

> Geopolitical realities do not present black-and-white choices. When you have complex relations with your neighbours, it makes sense to engage with theirs

Looking at the organization's international positioning, many wonder why India is in it. SCO supports the Non-Proliferation Treaty, from which India and Pakistan have stayed away. Every member, except India, participates in China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI). With Pakistan and China in it, there is no question of SCO supporting India on its terrorism concerns or in its ambitions for UN Security Council permanent membership. As targets of Western opprobrium and sanctions, Russia and China want SCO to articulate anti-West language that India may consider too harsh. Other contradictions include India's participation with Pakistan in the SCO Regional Anti-Terrorist Structure (with the unfortunate acronym, RATS), for intelligence-sharing on terrorist threats in the region. We will see Pakistani and Chinese military personnel participating in an SCO counter-terrorism exercise in Manesar in Haryana next month.

Geopolitical realities do not present black-and-white choices. When you have complex relations with your neighbours, it makes sense to engage with their neighbours. The SCO region is India's immediate neighbourhood.

A narrow strip of Afghanistan separates Tajikistan from Pakistan-occupied Kashmir. When the Taliban ruled Afghanistan in the 1990s, Pakistan used its territory for terrorist activities against India. After the US-led troops' withdrawal from Afghanistan, there is again the threat of terrorism and radicalism being nurtured there. Central Asian countries are concerned about this; India shares that concern.

Central Asia has been dominated by Russia and China. Over the years, Russia's political and security dominance has been complemented by China's economic influence. This balance is shifting. As BRI investments grow, China acquires greater political clout and a stronger security presence. The Russia-China regional dynamics impact India's strategic calculus, as also Turkey's advancing Central Asian footprint and the interaction of its interests with those of China, Russia and Iran—with each of which it has complex, multi-layered relations.

Central Asian countries are increasingly emphasising their national identities and exploring the limits of strategic autonomy. They welcome the strengthening of ties with India, with which they have an ancient history of economic and cultural links. India has reciprocated this interest. The region is rich in natural resources, which is relevant to India's efforts to diversify sources of critical resources.

Connectivity is the key to enhancing India's presence in Central Asia. Geography and politics block the overland route through Pakistan. An alternative is the International North-South Transport Corridor (INSTC)—from India to Iran by sea and then to Central Asia by land. India has developed a container terminal in Iran's Chabahar port; the onward land links are a work in progress. There is a reciprocal interest: Chabahar provides Central Asians an outlet to the sea, independent of Russia and China.

The SCO facilitates India-Central Asia interactions and enhances opportunities for monitoring the internal and external influences there, promoting economic connections and deterring hostile activities against Indian interests.

This explains India's seemingly uncomfortable presence in a grouping often portrayed as incompatible with its global ambitions. Geopolitics is a long, complex and painstaking game.

B'luru encroachment removal

Although it is a welcome move to remove encroachments from lake beds and stormwater drains, what about punishing the actual culprits who indulged in bribes and other forms of corruption? Removing the encroachments can be done, but the root of the problem is the culprits. They should be taken to task first.

This is with reference to the news, Only 35% govt school students clear NEET, well below TN average (Sept 13). This shows the low standard of government education in the state. The TN Government introduced NEET in 2012. Why couldn't they start coaching children in the same year? Even now, it is not too late. If students from the eighth standard are coached daily, this will surely improve numbers.

This is with reference to the editorial, Opposition unity moves fumble over Congress relations (Sept 13). The unwillingness of regional party leaders to join an alliance that includes the Congress is understandable. Some of these leaders also aspire to become prime minister. But they also need to realise that it would be near impossible to win an election without allying with the Grand Old Party.

Anti-cancer, cardiac drugs to become cheaper

Govt has made changes in National List of Essential Medicines by including 384 drugs for 27 therapeutic categories

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Central government has made medicines for cancer, cardiovascular diseases and other critical ailments more affordable by expanding the National List of Essential Medicines (NLEM) by adding 34 new drugs. After the revision, 384 drugs for 27 therapeutic categories are now in the list of essential medicines.

At the same time, the popular antacid Ranitidine has been taken off the list because of concerns that it causes cancer. The other 25 drugs like Sucralfate, Atenolol and Methyldopa have also been removed as cost effective and better options for these medicines are now available.

NLEM, also known as scheduled drugs, was last revised in 2015. It includes medicines that treat prevalent diseases such as fever, infections, heart diseases, hypertension, kidney dysfunction, tuberculosis, diabetes, skin diseases and blood disorders, and cancer.

The other 34 drugs included in the list are anti-tuberculosis medicine Bedaquiline, Rotavirus vaccine, antibiotic Amikacin, anti-filariasis drug Ivermicitin, hormone insulin Glargine used by diabetic patients, anti-asthma drug Montelukast, cardiovascular medicines Dabigatran and Tenecetplace and anti-infectives like ivermectin and mupirocin. The list also includes Nicotine Replacement Therapy.

However, the Covid vaccines have not been included in the list as the data of such medicines is still not conclusive from the regulatory perspective. But, the list includes medicines like Dexamethasone, Enoxaparin, Methylprednisolone, Paracetamol and also oxygen for Covid management.

"The National List of Essential Medicines (NLEM) plays an important role in ensuring accessibility of affordable quality medicines at all levels of healthcare. This will boost cost-effective, quality medicines and contribute towards a reduction in out of pocket expenditure on healthcare for the citizens," said Union Health Minister Dr Mansukh Mandaviya while releasing the revised NLEM list on Tuesday.

"Essential medicines" satisfy the priority health care needs based on efficacy, safety, quality and total cost of the treatment, he said, adding that it will also help improve the quality of health care, provide cost-effective health care and better management of medicines.

He said the National Pharma Pricing Authority (NPPA) will set its ceiling price, and based on this, and it is decided no company increases cost (of essential medicines) on its own."

According to Dr Y K Gupta, the vice chairman of the Standing National Committee on Medicines (SNCM), constituted by the health ministry in 2018 to revise the list, four drugs that are still under patent have been included in the list are Bedaquiline and Delaminated used in the treatment of multiple drug-resistant tuberculosis, Doulutegravir used to treat human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection, and Daclatasvir used in treating viral infections such as Hepatitis C.

The committee also highlighted the increasing and constant need to educate healthcare professionals and doctors against using several fixed-dose combinations (FDCs) of antibiotics. Although many antibiotic JFDCs with multiple antibiotics, analgesics, vitamins, minerals, etc., have been banned, still many combinations are in the market with doubtful rationality, Gupta said.

34 drugs added, 26 dropped

The Central government has made medicines for cancer, cardiovascular diseases and other critical ailments more affordable by expanding the National List of Essential Medicines.

NLEM has added 34 new drugs

After the revision, 384 drugs for 27 therapeutic categories are now in the list of essential medicines

The popular antacid Ranitidine has been taken off the list because of concerns that it causes cancer

25 drugs, including Sucralfate, Atenolol and Methyldopa have also been removed as better options for these medicines are now available

NLEM, also known as scheduled drugs, was last revised in 2015

NLEM includes medicines for fever, infections, heart diseases, hypertension, kidney dysfunction, tuberculosis, diabetes, skin diseases and blood disorders, and cancer

The Covid vaccines have not been included in the list

200 MEETINGS TO BE PART OF G20 SUMMIT NEXT YR

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

PREPARATIONS are under way in Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh for hosting the G20 meetings in 2023. India will assume presidency of the group in December this year, and the event next year will see about 200 meetings held across the country.

Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitaraman had, in the 2020 budget, earmarked Rs 100 crore budgetary allocation for the event, to be spent on making adequate security arrangements as well as other preparations across the country.

"India will assume the presidency of the G20 for a year from December, and during the course of the 200 meetings that would be hosted, some would be held in Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh. Security arrangements are being beefed up in these two Union Territories," sources said.

"It is a good beginning and a matter of privilege for us to host the G20 meetings. We have framed a committee and will put in all our efforts to make it a grand occasion," Lieutanent General of Jammu and Kashmir, Manoj Sinha, said. The G20 Summit in 2023 will be held in Delhi on September 9-10.

Meanwhile, the upcoming G20 Summit will be held in Bali in November this year. Prime Minister Narendra Modi will be attending the event, along with other G20 leaders.

The G20 members include Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Canada, China, France, Germany, India, Indonesia, Italy, Japan, Republic of Korea, Mexico, Russia, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Turkey, the UK, USA and the European Union (EU).

The G20 nations collectively account for 85 per cent of global GDP, 75 per cent of international trade and two-thirds of the world population – making it a premier forum for economic cooperation, according to the Ministry of External Affairs.

India is currently part of the G20 Troika (current, previous and incoming G20 presidencies), which also comprises Indonesia and Italy.

This would be the first time the troika consists of three developing countries and emerging economies, providing them a greater voice.

India began to work towards structuring and streamling events for the G20 earlier this year. Foreign Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla is the G20 coordinator while Niti Ayog CEO Amitabh Kant is the G20 Sherpa. India, as G20 presidency, will be inviting Bangladesh, Egypt, Mauritius, Netherlands, Nigeria, Oman, Singapore, Spain and UAE as guest countries, as well as International Solar Alliance, Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure, and Asian Development Bank as guest international organisations.

Sacked IPS officer tied to Ishrat case moves SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

GUJARAT cadre IPS officer Satish Chandra Verma, who had assisted the CBI in the Ishrat Jahan fake encounter probe, has approached Supreme Court against the Delhi High Court permitting the Union home ministry to sack him. Verma was dismissed on August 30, a month before his retirement on September 30.

While the HC permitted the ministry to sack him, it put the dismissal order on hold till September 19 to let him exercise his rights of seeking remedy from the Supreme Court.

"Without prejudice to the challenge to the charge-sheet in the subject proceedings, respondents are permitted to implement the order. However, it is directed that the order shall not be implemented till 19.09.2022, to enable the petitioner to avail of his remedies in accordance with law against the order of dismissal," the HC bench of Justices Sanjeev Sachdeva and Tushar Rao Gedela had said.

The IPS officer had approached the HC challenging the disciplinary proceedings initiated against him by the ministry. On September 29, 2021 the HC had permitted disciplinary proceedings but asked the ministry not to take any "precipitative action".

On informed that the proceedings against him were concluded but no final order was passed due to the September 29 order, the bench on August 30, 2022 let the ministry pass final orders with a rider. "Till the next date of hearing, the final order, if prejudicial to the petitioner, shall not be implemented without the leave of the court," the HC said. Yet, Verma was sacked the same day. His dismissal meant he would not be entitled to pension or other post-retirement benefits.

Gyanvapi: Court seeks evidence of puja till 1993

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

WHILE dismissing the petition of Anjuman Intezamia Masajid (AIM), the management committee of Gyanvapi mosque and upholding the maintainability of the petition filed by five Hindu women plaintiffs, Varanasi district court judge Dr AK Vishvesha also asked the plaintiffs to produce the evidence to substantiate the claim of worship of the deities in the mosque premises till 1993.

While going through the order, while the district judge says that the suit of the plaintiffs is not barred by the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991, he has also sought the history of puja and rituals offered to deities at different places on mosque property. On Page 12 of the order, the judge claims that the plea of the plaintiffs comprises of averments claiming that even after August 15, 1947 till year 1993, they were allowed to have Darshan and Pooja of Maa Shringar Gauri, Lord Ganesh, Lord Hanuman and other visible and invisible deities daily which exist within the property in question at the backside of Gyanvapi in northeast corner but, thereafter, Varanasi district administration barred their entry within the disputed property on all days except fourth day of Vasantik Navaratra in Chaitra when the Hindu devotees were allowed to worship in old temple walls on mosquepremises.

The order further states that if this this contention is proved then the suit is not barred by Section 4 of the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991. "At this stage, the averments made in the plaint are to be seen and plaintiffs will have right to prove their averments by cogent evidence," says the order. According to Hari Shankar Jain and other lawyers representing plaintiffs, in the light of the court order, they would produce the evidence required by the court through witnesses about the worship and the rituals which used to be performed for the deities at different places on mosque premises till 1993.

'SUBSTANTIATE CLAIM OF WORSHIP IN MOSQUE'

Judge claims that the plea of the plaintiffs comprises averments claiming that even after August 15, 1947 till year 1993, they were allowed to have darshan of Maa Shringar Gauri, Ganesh, Hanuman and other visible and invisible deities daily which exist within the property in question at Gyanvapi

Plaintiffs' lawyers to move Allahabad HC with caveat

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

AS the Anjuman Intezamia Masajid (AIM), the mosque management committee is set to challenge the Varanasi District Court order upholding the maintainability of the petition filed by five Hindu women plaintiffs seeking rights to worship Maa Shringar Gauri and other deities on mosque premises in Allahabad HC, the lawyers of the plaintiffs are also contemplating to file a caveat in upper court in the coming days.

As per the plaintiffs' lawyers, caveat from their side would be filed before High Court in the next couple of days to ensure that before passing any injunction against the Varanasi District Court order, the plaintiffs' submissions are also heard. Notably, following the dismissal of their petition challenging the maintainability of the plaintiffs' plea by the district court, the defendants' lawyer

Merazuddin Siddiqui, on Monday, had made the intentions clear of moving Allahabad High Court with a revision petition. The defendants' lawyers said that the revision petition would be filed in HC after studying the district court order thoroughly.

Meanwhile, in a related plea in fast track court by Hindu plaintiffs seeking the ban on entry of Muslims inside the Gyanvapi mosque after the recovery of a 'Shivling' like structure from the Wuzukhana and also the right to worship the Shivlinga, the court deferred the hearing to October 6.

A critic, a contrarian, a colossus, filmmaker Jean-Luc Godard dies at 91

SRIKANTH RAMACHANDRAN

HOW does one begin to speak about Jean-Luc Godard, the French-Swiss filmmaker who chose to end his life on Wednesday at the age of 91? More precisely, which Godard does one speak of? The renegade critic at the iconic film magazine 'Cahiers du cinéma' who championed directors working at the lower depths of the Hollywood studio system?

The young independent filmmaker who inspired, and continues to inspire, generations of movie brats with an astounding series of insouciant, dynamic, and self-aware works, starting with Breathless (1960)? The angry Maoist who quit filmmaking in the late sixties to work in anonymity within various political collectives, most notably the Dziga Vertov Group?

The melancholy recluse who, alongside his partner and filmmaker Anne-Marie Miéville, experimented with video and made one of the greatest cinematic works of all time, Histoire(s) du Cinéma (1988-1998)? Or the Old Master who continued to shake up the film form in the first two decades of our century, with a series of mournful, caustic digital essays?

If Godard has taught us anything, it is that we can begin anywhere. Beginning anew, restarting at zero, is a theme that has characterised Godard's professional life. His films from the 1990s onwards are shot through with a lament about the premature death of cinema, the snuffing out of its possibilities by commerce and art.

Yet, Godard was never a purist, and he embraced most every technological development — lightweight handheld cameras, television, analogue and digital videos, 3D stereoscopy, smartphones and even Instagram — at a time that these were seen as inimical to cinematic practice. Godard's body of work is defined by such ruptures and recommencements, so much so that they become its defining elements.

It may be odd to talk about the body of work of a filmmaker who hated careerism and couldn't perhaps be bothered less about his legacy; he was, after all, working on new films at the time of his death by assisted suicide. Yet as a colossus of twentieth-century art, he casts a tall shadow. Godard's legacy would be secure even if he hadn't made a single film; his passionate, typically epigrammatic film criticism, published in English as the book Godard on Godard (1986), has countless imitators, but few equals.

Filmmaking, he famously remarked, is criticism by other means. His reflexive and densely allusive films are shining instances on the medium's capacity to reflect not just on itself, but on its relation to history and the world. In Breathless, a celebrity writer is asked by the journalist-heroine what his ambition is. He replies, "To become immortal, and then to die." Has Godard achieved that? As a lifelong contrarian and a master of cryptic aphorisms, Godard would have no doubt had a zinger in response.

Kappan to stay in jail in ED case, wife says 'no evidence'

Lucknow court to hear bail plea on Sept 19

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

KERALA-based journalist Siddique Kappan, who was granted bail by the Supreme Court on Saturday in a case under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, will remain in jail until he gets bail in a case probed by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) against him, said jail officials.

Speaking to this daily, Kappan's wife Raihana Siddique said that she is hopeful of getting bail in the ED case against Kappan as there is no evidence against him.

"The Lucknow district sessions court will hear the bail plea on September 19. Though we are hopeful, I am also apprehensive since the case is being heard in Lucknow court. There is no evidence against him as the ED claims, It's just a ploy to delay his release from prison", said Raihana .

Kappan was arrested in October 2020 along with three others, on his way to Hathras in Uttar Pradesh to report on the alleged gang rape and murder where of a Dalit woman. On September 9, a bench headed by CJI Justice UU Lalit granted him bail.

On Monday, the court of additional district and sessions judge Anurodh Mishra released Kappan following orders of the SC. While ordering his release, Mishra directed Kappan to furnish two sureties of Rs 1 lakh each and a personal bond of the same amount. However, he will continue to be in jail until he gets bail in the ED case, said prison authorities.

The ED claims that Kappan and three others are allegedly related to Muslim outfit Popular Front of India and its student wing Campus Front Of India who accompanied him to Hathras.

BJP will retain power in Gujarat: Shah

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

WITHOUT naming AAP, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday said Gujarat people should not be carried away by "false promises" and that the BJP would retain power in Gujarat with a two-thirds majority.

Shah was virtually addressing a gathering on the first anniversary of Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel in office.

"The people should judge the BJP on the development works carried out by it. I know the people of Gujarat well enough; they recognize people for their work," said Shah.

> The state has shown a growth of 8.2% in 10 years. The Bhupendra Patel government has succeeded in maintaining this growth rate though the world has not yet emerged from the corona epidemic
> Amit Shah, Union Home Minister

In a direct attack on the Congress, Shah said development works have taken place in the state during the BJP rule. "The progress has been possible because of a much better law and order situation. The Congress rule had witnessed riots, curfews and blasts."

Shah said when Bhupendra Patel took oath as the CM, a section of the people was a little apprehensive. "However, he has proved everyone wrong and has successfully completed one year in office."

Giving an example of a recent NITI Aayog report, Shah said Gujarat is number one in good governance in many aspects -- education, health and other sectors. He said that Patel had continued the development work started by PM Modi.

"The state has shown a growth of 8.2% in 10 years. The Bhupendra Patel government has succeeded in maintaining this growth rate though the world has not yet emerged from the corona epidemic," said Shah.

Earlier in the day, the Vedanta group signed an agreement with the state government to invest in the semiconductor plant in Gujarat.

Shah also virtually inaugurated 519 public welfare development works completed at a cost of ₹1,179 crore.

Cong finished, only AAP can fight BJP: Kejriwal

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

A day after a high drama in Ahmedabad over his autorickshaw ride, Delhi CM and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) national convener Arvind Kejriwal on Tuesday hit out at BJP and opposition Congress, promising to provide a "corruption-free" government in the state if the party came to power.

He asked Gujarat Police to refuse to obey "BJP's orders for wrong actions."

Kejriwal responded to BJP's claims that Narmada Bachao Andolan leader and activist Medha Patkar will be projected as AAP's CM candidate. "Saying that AAP is fielding Patkar as a CM candidate in Gujarat is just like saying that the BJP is going to project Sonia Gandhi as PM Modi's successor," he said.

Kejriwal said AAP would defeat the BJP in the upcoming Gujarat polls. "I promise to the people of Gujarat that it will be made a corruption-free and fear-free state," he said.

He asked voters not to "waste" their votes on Congress, insisting that the party was nowhere in the race.

> The Congress is finished. Stop taking their questions. People are clear about this. Nobody cares about their questions
> Arvind Kejriwal, national convener, AAP

"There are people who don't want BJP rule in the state and they also don't like voting for the Congress. We have to get their votes as we are the only alternative," said Kejriwal.

Pitching AAP as the BJP's main rival, instead of the Congress, Kejriwal said: "The Congress is finished. Stop taking their questions. People are clear about this. Nobody cares about their questions."

Once sidelined, Tawde now a force within BJP

BJP's Vinod Tawde – who is now national general secretary – was once a cornered leader and sidelined by then CM Devendra Fadnavis. Once a teary-eyed Tawde had said that he had failed to understand why he was denied a ticket for the 2019 state assembly polls. But Tawde's fortunes have made a U-turn. After being elevated to the top post within the national cadre a year ago, he was also made BJP in-charge for Haryana and is currently the Bihar BJP in-charge. Recently, Union Minister Amit Shah was seen chatting with Tawde during the former's Mumbai visit. Interestingly, Tawde was once denied place in former Home Minister Rajnath Singh's car in Mumbai.

CM busier with poojas than official affairs

Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde is one chief minister who has visited as many Ganesh mandals as in Mumbai and Pune. He had even visited standalone Ganesh mandals. His daily officials schedule was full of Ganesh darshan. Besides, he keeps himself busy in performing poojas in temples and religious places. Shinde must be the first CM in Maharashtra history who has been visiting religious and spiritual places in large numbers. These temple and Ganesh darshan visits are hampering administrative work and even the health of the chief minister. He leaves his residence at 7.00 am and remain outside till the next day.

Corrupt RERA: No end to builders' woes

Maharashtra government has long been looking to iron out problems with the housing industry and bring in transparency. While the state's Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) is in existence, the body has been sitting on files for uncertain period so that they can milk the developers in a big way. RERA has no power to block a project, while they have been accused of systematically misusing their power to exploit developers. Developers have been complaining about big corruption in legal work for years – but has fallen on deaf ears.

Our fight is with the Congress only. AAP is nowhere in the picture. We will repeat our victory – a first for us – in the state. AAP's assertions about the Delhi model are nothing but a model of corruption
Suresh Kashyap, BJP state chief, Himachal Pradesh

TRADITIONAL logic in poll-bound Himachal Pradesh could indicate that the state is a low hanging fruit for the Congress – no party in the past has won consecutively. The reality, however, is no music for the badly divided party banking on freebies. And then, an aggressive AAP is knocking the doors of power after a landslide in neighbouring Punjab.

The ruling BJP is emboldened enough to claim a repeat performance. The party is organizing itself at a micro-level with the slogan 'Mission Repeat' under the leadership of the PM, who is due to address a rally in the state on Sept 24.

The AAP has announced 10 'guarantees' for the people. Some of these include ₹1,000 per month to every woman, an unemployment allowance, free pilgrimage for the elderly. The party believes its national convenor Arvind Kejriwal has enough of a charisma to counter both BJP and Congress.

The Congress continues to play up the legacy politics. New state party chief Pratibha Singh banks on her late husband, former Virbhadra Singh. She has announced a string of sops -- five lakh jobs, ₹1,500 allowance to women and 300 units of free power.

In the last assembly polls, the BJP won 44 of the 68 assembly seats with a vote share of 48.8%, improving the party's vote share from 38.47% in 2012. The 2017 polls saw the best-ever performance by the saffron party in terms of vote share since it first contested elections in the state in 1982. In terms of seats, the party put up the second-best performance: in 1990, it had won 46 seats.

The Congress won 21 of the 68 seats with a vote share of 41.7%, slightly down from 42.81% in 2012. The state in the last assembly polls recorded the highest voter turnout of 74.61% breaking the previous record of 74.51% in 2003.

Both the Congress and BJP have taken turns to rule the state since 1985. Political analysts believe that it will not be easy for AAP to create much impact in Himachal given the entrenched two-party system in the state.

Centre, NSCN(I-M) iron out hiccups in Naga talks

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

The Centre and the NSCN(I-M) leadership have thrashed out nearly all the issues that could pave the way for a lasting peace in the northeastern region. There are, however, minor hiccups in concluding a final agreement.

The NSCN(I-M) leadership was reportedly ready to issue a press release on Tuesday, announcing the agreement, but deferred it for the time being.

The Centre and the Naga leaders have been debating the two critical issues of a Naga flag being an official symbol, as well as incorporation of the Yehzabo or constitution. The government has reportedly offered to include parts of the Yehzabo into the Indian Constitution and also make the Naga flag a "cultural" symbol as opposed to the NSCN(IM) demand of making it an official one.

> At the heart of the negotiations between the Centre and the NSCN(IM) is the political contours of the Naga-inhabited areas in Manipur and Arunachal Pradesh
> A source

The Centre has stuck to its stand of not having a separate Naga constitution and a flag as it believes in 'one India, one Constitution' and 'one India, one flag'. It had earlier done away with the Kashmiri flag and constitution following the revocation of Article 370.

The government's interlocutor for the Naga peace process, former Intelligence Bureau Special Director A K Mishra and a section of the NSCN(IM)'s senior leadership met secretly at Shillong in the last week of August, when they reportedly agreed on the incorporation of the Yehzabo in the Indian Constitution and using a flag for cultural occasions.

These issues came up for discussion during a meeting between Union Home Minister Amit Shah and an 11-member team from Nagaland, including Chief Minister Neiphiu Rio and Deputy Chief Minister Yanthungo Patton on September 12.

Shah is said to have impressed upon Rio and Patton, among others who are part of a core committee, to convince the NSCN(IM) leadership on the twin issues of a constitution and a flag.

Nursery student sexually assaulted by driver inside school bus in Bhopal

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

A three-and-a-half-year-old nursery student of a prominent school in Bhopal was allegedly sexually assaulted in the school bus by the driver in presence of the woman attendant. Four days after the incident took place, the driver and the caretaker were on Monday arrested and booked under relevant sections of the POCSO Act.

The school is under scrutiny for allegedly trying to cover up the incident. The National Commission for Protection of Child Rights has also written to the Bhopal district collector, seeking a report within three days. The school education department has also constituted a three-member panel to probe the incident and the school's laxity.

The crime came to the knowledge of the child's parents on Sept. 8 when they noticed that her outfit had been changed to the spare dress kept in the school bag. When asked, the girl told them that the "bus uncle" changed the dress. However, when the parents checked the additional set of clothes in the bag, they did not find it soiled.

> Mere framing of laws won't help, their proper implementation is needed. The present state government is insensitive to this aspect. We will raise the issue in Vidhan Sabha
> Hina Kaware, Congress leader

Upon further questioning, the student said that the driver "badly touched" her body, including private parts. The parents then recalled that she was complaining about pain in private parts around a week back too. They reported the matter to the school administration on Sept 9.

However, on finding that the school was not acting fast enough, they approached the police on Monday. According to sources, the CCTV installed in the bus wasn't working.

Meanwhile, state's Home Minister Narottam Mishra said, "The school management will be questioned by the police and on being found wanting, action will be initiated against them."

State's Culture and Tourism Minister Usha Thakur also reacted to the incident, and said, "The BJP government has been sensitive to such crimes, as MP was the first state in 2017 to pass a bill to award capital punishment to those convicted for raping girls aged below 12 years. Also, the government has worked to fast track the hearing of such cases. But real change will only happen when moral standards are enhanced by the society as a whole."

Blaming the Shivraj Singh Chouhan government, Congress leader Hina Kaware said, "Mere framing of laws won't help, their proper implementation is needed. The present state government is insensitive to this aspect. We will raise the issue in Vidhan Sabha."

'Need protocol to curb cattle smuggling'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FINDING several loopholes in the BSF's strategy to stop cattle smuggling along the India-Bangladesh border, a parliamentary panel on Monday advised the paramilitary force's leadership to establish a clear set of protocols for cattle rescued from smugglers.

The Parliamentary Standing Committee on Home Affairs, under the chairmanship of Congress MP Abhishek Singhvi told the BSF top brass, including Director-General Pankaj Singh, to present a detailed action plan in writing on the recovery of smuggled cattle to ensure there are no deaths.

Singh earlier made a detailed presentation for the committee on BSF's functions and the action plan for the security of the borders with Pakistan and Bangladesh. Responding to a question from BJP MP Dilip Ghosh, Singh elaborated on the problem of cattle smuggling.

Raj sports minister heckled at Gujjar rally in Ajmer, he blames it on Pilot

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

A day after Rajasthan Sports and Youth Affairs Minister Ashok Chandna was heckled at a Gujjar community gathering in Ajmer, he alleged the role of Sachin Pilot and his supporters for the protest against him.

The minister dared the Pilot camp with a "direct fight," saying either of them would survive such a "duel."

The rift within the state Congress party has deepened in recent weeks as Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot is tipped to take over as the state party chief and shift from Rajasthan. The Pilot camp is lobbying hard for the CM's chair in case Gehlot moves to New Delhi.

The differences between the rival camps involving Gehlot and Pilot were simmering over sometime. These came out in the open in Pushkar in Ajmer on Monday evening.

Reports said as soon as Gehlot supporters and the sports and youth affairs minister reached the stage to deliver a speech, sections of the crowd started protesting, throwing shoes and bottles. They also raised pro-Pilot slogans.

Though the police and others pacified the Pilot supporters, Chandna had to stop his speech midway.

Chandna soon poured out his anger on his Twitter handle. "If Sachin Pilot becomes the CM by throwing shoes at me, then be ready... The day I come to fight, then only one will be left and this is not what I want," Chandna said in a tweet.

When state Industries Minister Shakuntala Rawat came to deliver her speech, protests began as Pilot supporters did not want her to speak. Pilot, Chandna and Rawat come from the Gujjar community with Pilot enjoying strong influence over the Gujjar vote bank in the state.

A week back, 21 MLAs and ministers participated in a show of strength on Sachin's birthday in Jaipur. Many pro-Sachin supporters demand that he should be the CM. Curiously, Pilot has kept silent over the Congress president's election and rumours about CM Gehlot being offered the job.

UKRAINE PILES PRESSURE ON RUSSIAN TROOPS

Moscow accuses Kyiv of abusing civilians

KRAMATORSK

UKRAINIAN troops piled pressure on retreating Russian forces on Tuesday, pressing a counteroffensive that has produced major gains and a stunning blow to Moscow's military prestige.

It was not yet clear if the Ukrainian blitz in the northeast after months of little discernible movement could signal a turning point in the nearly seven-month war. But the country's officials were buoyant, releasing footage showing their forces burning Russian flags and inspecting abandoned charred tanks. In one video, border guards tore down a poster that read, "We are one people with Russia."

Momentum has switched back and forth before, and Ukraine's American allies, for one, were careful not to declare a premature victory since Russian President Vladimir Putin still has troops and resources to tap.

In the face of Russia's largest defeat since its botched attempt to capture Kyiv early in the war, Defense Ministry spokesman Igor Konashenkov said troops were hitting back with 'massive strikes' across the Ukrainian front line and accused Ukrainian soldiers of abusing civilians in territories recaptured in a dramatic counter-offensive.

"Air, rocket and artillery forces are carrying out massive strikes on units of the Ukrainian armed forces in all operational directions," the Russian defence ministry said in its daily briefing on the conflict. 'High-precision' strikes have also been launched on Ukrainian positions around Sloviansk and Konstantinovka in the eastern Donetsk region, it added.

President Vladimir Putin's spokesman said that in the Kharkiv region, reports were emerging of 'outrageous' treatment of civilians. "There are a lot of punitive measures... people are being tortured, people are being mistreated and so on," Dmitry Peskov told journalists.

Russia's allegations came after Ukrainian authorities claimed to have found four bodies of civilians with 'signs of torture' in the recaptured eastern village of Zaliznychne. Residents reported that Russian troops had killed villagers, the regional prosecutor's office said, announcing a war crime probe.

FSB ARRESTS MAN ACCUSED OF SPYING FOR UKRAINE

Moscow: Russian security services said Tuesday they had arrested an employee of an aerospace factory on suspicion of high treason for passing classified defence-related information to Ukraine. The Federal Security Service said the Russian citizen had photographed "classified top-secret technical documents," and sent them via mobile phone to an employee of an aviation factory in Odessa.

Succession, The White Lotus win big at Emmys

VIGNESH MADHU

AFTER two years of Covid concerns, the Emmy Awards returned to normalcy this year. Though the ceremony was held indoors at the Microsoft Theater in Los Angeles, most of the guests among the packed audience were spotted without masks. At the much anticipated 74th Primetime Emmy Awards, the TV shows, Succession, Ted Lasso, and The White Lotus bagged top honours. There were familiar winners, first-time winners, and a few upsets too.

HBO's acclaimed TV series Succession won the coveted Outstanding Drama Series Award. This is the second time the series has won in this category after 2020. The award for the Outstanding Comedy Series went to Apple TV Plus' Ted Lasso. The show, which had 20 nominations in total, also won awards in the categories of Outstanding Lead Actor in a Comedy Series (Jason Sudeikis), Outstanding Supporting Actor in a Comedy Series (Brett Goldstein), and Outstanding Directing for a Comedy Series (MJ Delaney).

The White Lotus, meanwhile, won the award for Outstanding Limited Series. The American dramedy tied with Ted Lasso with 20 nominations each. The HBO show, The White Lotus, swept all the awards for which it was nominated, including Outstanding Directing and Outstanding Writing, both won by Mike White.

Netflix's South Korean global-hit series, Squid Game, had a historic run with 14 nominations, including one for Best Drama. The show's director, Hwang Dong-hyuk, won the award for Outstanding Directing for a Drama Series.

Sebi has no role in IPO pricing: Chairperson

Buch says cos are free to price their IPOs, but there is need for detailed disclosures for better functioning of market

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

SECURITIES and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) chairperson Madhabi Puri Buch on Tuesday said the capital market regulator has no role in the pricing of initial public offerings or IPOs, adding that there is a need for detailed disclosure for the better functioning of the market.

"We have no problem even if a company has placed its equity with some party at ₹100 three or six months ago and now it wishes to come to the market at ₹450. However, we expect you to disclose to the investor what accounts for the difference between ₹100 and ₹450, explain what has happened during the period and justify the change," Buch said in her first public address after being appointed as Sebi chief over six months ago on February 28. She was speaking at FICCI's 'Annual Capital Markets Conference' event.

Her remarks come after several new-age tech companies that got listed last year wiped out crores of investors' wealth overnight, leading to debate on the pricing of the issues and Sebi's role in it. PayTM, whose share prices have fallen about 53% since listing in November 2021, had priced its IPO much higher than its private placement price. Its dismal performance on the market, along with the selling seen in Zomato, PB Fintech and Nykaa shares so far in 2022 has raised concerns over the interest of retail investors. "The days of the competition commission of India are gone and the parliament has mandated us that we should have no view on the pricing of issues. You are free to price the issue at whatever price you consider appropriate," said Buch. Buch also asked the industry to abide by regulations and sought out more transparency. "Without industry support it is difficult for Sebi to get rid of evils that we know of -- front running, insider trading, fraudulent transactions and manipulations of stock prices," she said. She said Sebi is analysing data on retail participation in futures and options segment, which may lead to more disclosures to be made available to them. "Sebi will continue to be consultative and democratic in its approach while making regulations and be driven only by data," she said.

FinMin forms expert panel to boost VC, PE funding

FINANCE ministry has appointed an expert panel to examine and suggest measures to enable scale up investments by venture capital (VC) and private equity (PE) funds. The six-member panel will be headed by former Sebi chairman M Damodaran. The panel will look at regulatory and tax related issues faced by VC and PE funds while investing in the country. It will look for measures to minimise regulatory and tax hurdles for investors to facilitate ease of investing. ENS

IT JOBS

No 'double lives', 'no moonlighting': Infosys tells staff

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

AFTER Wipro Chairman Rishad Premji called 'moonlighting' in tech industry as 'cheating - plain and simple', IT services firm Infosys has sent an email to its employees saying "No Double Lives!' 'No Two-Timing-No Moonlighting!'.

Moonlighting is having a second job in addition to a person's regular job. Infosys in an email said, "At Infosys, dual employment is not permitted as per the employee handbook and the Code of Conduct."

It also warned employees that any violation will lead to disciplinary action, which could even lead to termination of employment. HR experts say moonlighting has been around for a while but gained prominence recently due to the nature of hybrid work and work from home (WFH). Since the majority of IT staff are doing WFH since March 2020, moonlighting has become a big concern for the industry.

Vijay Sivaram, CEO of Quess IT Staffing, said currently in the IT space, there are two types of moonlighting that can take place. The first one is within the same industry/function and the second is in a different industry. "When resources are working for the same industry/function for two different companies, this would result in dual employment and functionally there is a bigger risk from the standpoint of an employer, as it could result in leakage of private data or customer information, which is integral to the business," he said. He added that this should not be allowed as most customers, clients and countries have clear-cut data privacy structures in place. Employees should have clarity of what a moonlighting policy allows and what doesn't. The anonymity of large-scale remote working with limited enterprise visibility turned convenient for job hunts and moonlighting alike, said Kamal Karanth, co-founder, Xpheno, a staffing solutions firm. According to him, a return to work from office will remove the convenient anonymity under which moonlighting thrives. However, forcing to return a resisting workforce to office will further trigger moonlighting attempts and attrition as talents would venture out assessing their options outside. "A continued moderation of hiring action in the market will reduce the opportunities and eventually force talent to return without distractions of moonlighting," he added.

Knight Frank report classifies 57 malls as 'ghost malls'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

NEARLY 21% of 271 operational malls or 57 malls across the top eight cities in India are currently in different stages of dilapidation, according to a report by real estate consultancy firm Knight Frank.

The report, which terms these malls as ghost malls, says the 57 malls comprise nearly 8.4 million square feet (sq.ft) in gross leasable space and all attempts to breathe life into these assets and attract a good retailer mix and footfalls have been unsuccessful.

The national capital region (NCR) has the largest 3.35 million sq.ft of space occupied by such malls, as per the report. IT city Bengaluru has 1.38 million sq.ft of space occupied by 'ghost malls' and followed by Hyderabad and Mumbai at 1.14 million sq ft and 1.13 million sq ft space, respectively. If a mall has a vacancy of more than 40%, it's defined as a 'ghost mall'.

Due to multiple factors such as lack of due diligence, shortcomings such as size and ownership patterns, design issues, faulty layout with dark alleys, lack of customer walk flow management, low occupancy and lack of anchor tenants, some of the shopping mall assets developed in the golden era of mall development in India were in for a reality check by the dusk of 2008, when India was hit by the global recession. "As a result, revenue generation potential of mall assets are far below the expected threshold," the report said.

Why India Inc hesitant to get into mfg, asks FM

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

FINANCE minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Tuesday sought to know why despite the government's effort to boost investors' confidence India Inc is hesitant to invest in the manufacturing sector.

"This is the time for India. We cannot miss the bus," Sitharaman said at Mindmine Summit. She stated that the countries and industries abroad have tremendous confidence in India, which is reflected in FDI and FPI inflows. She assured that the government is willing to give all kind of support to India Inc to invest here.

"If I take the example of the production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme, one of the things we are looking at is its impact on the labour force," Sitharaman said. "When we talk about MSMEs, we are looking for in situ solutions for MSMEs because they are the ones who give training and employ people locally as much as the large-scale units collectively," she further added.

Meanwhile at another event, she dismissed the suggestion for the need of Fiscal Council. Speaking at the launch of the book, Relicabrate: Changing Paradigms, co-authored by NK Singh, chairman of the 15th Finance Commission, and PK Mishra, principal secretary to the Prime Minister, Sitharaman said," I find a very powerful case being made for a fiscal council (in this book), which is not new."

"I would like to raise a flag on the case being made for a Fiscal Council. NK Singh recommended Fiscal Council to form a bridge between GST Council and Finance Commission. I am not sure if GST is accomplished yet in 5 years," the minister said. She stated that newly-formed institutions take time to settle. "India's institutions rose to the occasion in a Black Swan event (pandemic) and addressed stress points of economy," she further added.

FM assures to provide India Inc any support

ANALYSTS CUT 12-MONTH EARNINGS FORECASTS FOR ASIAN CORPORATES

Analysts have cut their 12-month earnings forecasts for Asian firms over past month, undermined by a dip in manufacturing activity and concerns over a drop in shipments, especially to China. As per Refinitiv data, Asia's large and mid-cap firms' forward 12-month earnings estimates have been cut by 2.8% over the past month. In the past 3 months, the estimates have been cut by 5%, data showed. South Korean and Taiwanese firms led the earnings downgrades in the region over the past month, as they faced cuts of 5.5% and 3.5%, respectively. Japan and China also followed, with cuts of about 3.4% each. Japan's factory activity grew at its slowest rate in a year in August, while that of South Korea fell at its sharpest rate in 2 years, PMIs for both countries showed. Manufacturing activity also deteriorated in Taiwan, with production and new orders both falling at the fastest pace since the initial wave of the pandemic in May 2020.

INDONESIA

EXPORT GROWTH SEEN SLOWING IN AUG

Indonesia's exports were seen slowing in August as prices of some of its top commodities fell, but its trade surplus was likely to hold up at around $4 billion, a Reuters poll showed on Tuesday. Twenty one analysts surveyed by Reuters predicted exports from Southeast Asia's largest economy grew 19.19% on a yearly basis in August, down from the previous month's 32.03% growth. Imports were seen rising 30.60% on a yearly basis, which was a slower growth compared with July's 39.86%. The August trade surplus was seen at $4.09 billion, as against $4.22 billion surplus in the previous month. The resource-rich nation has been enjoying an export boom on the back of rising commodity prices, which has boosted its economic recovery from the impact of the pandemic. However, its statistics bureau last month warned of a risk of export slowdown due to moderating prices of commodities like palm oil and nickel.

THAILAND

THAI CONSUMER CONFIDENCE AT 7-MONTH HIGH IN AUG

Thai consumer confidence rose for a third straight month in August, reaching a seven-month high and bolstered by improved economic activity following an easing of pandemic curbs, a survey showed on Tuesday. The consumer index of the University of the Thai Chamber of Commerce rose to 43.7 in August from 42.4 in the previous month. The steady rise of consumer confidence suggested a clear recovery in Southeast Asia's second-largest economy with growth expected at 3.0% to 3.5% this year, university president Thanavath Phonvichai told a briefing. "Consumers felt they were making more money and business was more active following a reopening to foreign tourists and resumed night business," he said. The return of night entertainment had added a monthly 50 billion baht ($1.38 billion) to the economy, he said. Consumer spending is expected to increase significantly from late in the third quarter, he said, also helped by wage increases.

Vedanta, Foxconn to invest ₹1.54 lakh cr for semiconductor units in Gujarat

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

ANIL AGARWAL-led Vedanta Limited in collaboration with Foxconn Group will invest more than ₹1.54 lakh crore to set up the semiconductor ecosystem in Gujarat.

The conglomerate said Vedanta Displays will set up a Display Fab Unit with an investment of ₹94,500 crore and Vedanta Semiconductors will set up an integrated Semiconductor Fab Unit and OSAT (outsourced semiconductor assembly and test) facility with an investment of ₹60,000 crore.

"Thus 2 MoUs together will bring investment of over ₹1.54 lakh crore and generate nearly 1 lakh employment opportunities in the state," said the company in a statement. Vedanta and Foxconn entered into 2 Memorandums of Understanding (MoUs) with the Gujarat government on September 13, 2022. It said Vedanta and Foxconn will work closely with the government to establish high-tech clusters with requisite infrastructure, including land, semiconductor grade water, high-quality power, logistics and a skill ecosystem. "It is a step in the right direction for Gujarat helping towards building a $1 trillion digital national economy," said Ashwini Vaishnaw, electronics and information technology minister.

PLANS ON CARD

- Vedanta Displays will set up a display fab unit with an investment of ₹94,500 crore
- Vedanta Semiconductors will set up semiconductor fab unit and outsourced semiconductor assembly and test facility with an investment of ₹60,000 crore
- Vedanta and Foxconn Group entered into two MoUs with the Gujarat government on September 13, 2022
- Display manufacturing unit will produce Generation 8 displays catering to small, medium and large applications

Brian Ho, vice-president, Foxconn Semiconductor Group, said the decision of finalising Gujarat for the semiconductor and display fab units was a culmination of extensive analysis of possible project sites in India and across the world by sectoral experts. The proposed semiconductor manufacturing fab unit will operate on 28nm technology nodes with wafer size 300mm, and the display manufacturing unit will produce Generation 8 displays catering to small, medium and large applications.

The government had notified 4 schemes with an outlay of ₹76,000 crore to make India a global semiconductor chip manufacturing hub. "Gujarat has a long history of having an investor-friendly atmosphere and a robust manufacturing base. The recently notified policy with excellent incentives on capex, land, water and power has made Gujarat a compelling choice for his company's foray into semiconductor manufacturing sector," said Vedanta Group Chairman Anil Agrawal.

Nifty reclaims 18K level, Wall Street collapses

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

ON the back of sustained foreign institutional investor (FIIs) buyings and positive global cues, the Indian stock market gained for the fourth successive sessions.

Markets shrugged off higher inflation and lower IIP numbers that came on Monday.

The broader Nifty, after a gap of five months, scaled the 18,000 level and closed at 18,070, up 134 points from the previous day's closing. BSE Sensex rose 456 points to settle at 60,571. All eyes are now on how the domestic market reacts to the US inflation figures for August that came on Tuesday. Wall Street benchmark Dow Jones and tech-heavy Nasdaq fell over 2.5% each during the first two hours of trading.

The consumer price index (CPI) of the US showed an annual pace of 8.3%. This, according to analysts, gives room to the Federal Reserve next week to go for a 75-basis point (bps) rate hike. There are contrasting views on how the markets would react if the Fed goes for a 75 bps hike. While some analysts believe the market has already factored in a 50-75 bps hike, some say a 75 bps hike, which will lower liquidity from the market, is a negative for the US, as well as emerging markets such as India. "The sharp fall in US equity early Tuesday is likely to send shivers to the global equity market, including India, which already is at elevated level. We expect at least 10% correction from current level now or after the peak festive season," said a senior analyst of a global brokerage.

Sounding bullish on the Indian equity market, Sunil Damania, chief investment officer at MarketsMojo, said Nifty has touched 18,000 as the undercurrent in the market is robust. "We are confident the market will continue to do well as levers for growth continue. With PLI scheme, China plus one strategy, India is among the fastest-growing economies in the world and inflation continuing to remain soft are all indicators that the market should do well," added Damania.

Meanwhile, rupee surged by about 0.45% on the back of strong portfolio inflows, as well as recent slide in dollar index from two-decade highs. Rupee appreciated 36 paise to close at 79.17 (provisional) against the US dollar on Tuesday.

After delays, Byju's may file audited financial results this week

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

AFTER delays of about 18 months, India's most valuable edtech firm Byju's, is likely to release its audited financials for the year ended March 2021 before September 16.

According to various reports, there might be a difference between the audited revenue and the projected one. Byju's in July said the audited financial results would be announced in next 10 days. The edtech company has been missing deadlines to file the results for long. Last month, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs is said to have asked Byju's to explain the reason for delay in filing audited financials, and in its reply the company said the delay was due to consolidating the accounts of companies that the firm acquired during that year. Earlier, it had delayed payments to shareholders of tuition chain Aakash that it acquired for $1 billion last year.

In July, Member of Parliament Karti P Chidambaram wrote to the Serious Fraud Investigation Office (SFIO) urging them to launch an investigation into the finances of Byju's. He raised 3 key issues - missing ₹2,500 crore in the company's funding, the edtech company has not received ₹1,200 crore funding from Oxshott Capital and delay in filing its audit report. "At a time when Byju's proposes to expand its business and acquire Nasdaq-listed company 2U at a valuation of $2.4 billion, while parallelly firing staff to cut costs, it becomes pertinent to review the company's finances," he had said.

Technology company HCL lays off 350 employees

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

TECHNOLOGY company HCL Technologies has reportedly laid off 350 employees globally.

According to various reports, they were employed by HCL's client Microsoft's news outlet MSN. The last day of employment is reportedly September 30 for the laid-off employees and that they will receive severance compensation. A query sent to Microsoft didn't elicit any response. Instead of confirming or denying lay off, HCL in a statement said, "Our Technology & Services vertical continues to see robust growth and is one of the fastest growing segments for us." According to an HCL employee, the company has apparently sacked many employees who were on bench for more than two months. In its recent report, Monster said IT industry (down 8%) saw a hiring dip due to ongoing start-up layoffs, great resignations, and variable pay-out trends in the sector, BPO/ITES (down 4%) saw a similar dip, which could be attributed to reduced hiring across metro cities. Xpheno, a staffing firm, in its recent report said IT services sector had its sharpest YoY drop of 23% in active job volumes in August 2022 as against August 2021. It said August 2022 figures closed 4% lower than July 2022, registering the lowest volume in over a year.

Warner and CA to discuss captaincy ban

David Warner is set to have discussions with Cricket Australia to end his lifetime leadership ban in the coming weeks as the board looks for a replacement for former ODI skipper Aaron Finch. While Test skipper Pat Cummins is favourite to take over the job if he can mange his workload, Warner may also be in the reckoning.

Rival factions send two separate handball teams for Nat'l Games

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

INFIGHTING between rival factions and parallel national sports federations being run by them may cost dear to athletes in the upcoming 2022 National Games. Even as the National Games are only days away handball players are not yet certain about their participation in the event. And the uncertainty prevails as two NSFs claiming to be running the sport in the country have sent their respective entries for the event to the Indian Olympics Association (IOA). Given the situation, the IOA has yet to approve the entries giving sleepless nights to teams from the two factions.

The Games, being held after a gap of seven years, are scheduled to be held across six cities of Gujarat from September 29 to October 12. Two versions of handball are proposed at the Games — beach and indoor events.

On being queried, the IOA asked to wait for two days for the issue to get resolved. The secretary-general of one of the federations, Handball Association India (HAI), also sang from the same hymn sheet. "We have sent the entries. We are quite sure the IOA will rule in our favour as the NOC accepts the federation, which is recognised by the international body. We had an annual general meeting in Lucknow on Sunday and representatives from the international and Asian bodies were there. They will soon issue us the certificates and we will produce it before the IOA which will pave way for the participation of our teams," Tejraj Singh, secretary-general of HAI, told this daily.

However, Pritpal Singh Saluja, secretary-general of the Handball Federation of India (HFI), accused the IOA of favouring the other faction. He claimed that the HFI is the authorised body to run the sport in the country, he asserted, "Our teams should compete at the National Games as the HFI is in existence since 1972. If that doesn't happen, I will move the court against the decision."

Both the factions have sent entries in men's and women's categories for both beach and indoor handball.

GAME TIME

Champions League action continues on Wednesday with Chelsea, Real Madrid, Manchester City all in action. Here are the talking points...

HAALAND TEST | The German side are up against a player, who they are not only familiar with, but the one who grew in stature. Stopping Erling Haaland is not going to be an easy for Dortmund, who travel to Manchester to face Guardiola's team. Manchester City have a good record against Dortmund, winning two out of the four games that have been played. Haaland has been virtually unstoppable so far in the Premier League and will want to prove his mettle against his former club. Unless Dortmund find a way to keep him silent, there is going to be only one winner from this tie.

POTTER TIME| A lot has changed since last Chelsea took the field aainst Dinamo Zagreb in the first gameweek. The away defeat has led to Thomas Tuchel's exit and as Salzburg come calling Graham Potter is in the hot seat. Given the uncertainty in the hosts, Salzburg would be hoping to spring a surprise in what is their first-ever meeting with Chelsea. But this is not going to be easy and Potter has got enough time to get his eye in and prepare the team for Salzburg's visit.

REAL POWER | In their opening fixture against Celtic, Real Madrid looked everybit a well-oiled machine. So Carlo Ancelotti would expect nothing different when they host Leipzig. Anything other than a victory would be considered an upset for Real. If Real are running high, Leipzig were off to a horrid start. The shock defeat to Shakhar at home led to Domenico Tedesco's sacking and Marco Rose has come in as replacement. Leipzig come into the fixture having beaten Borussia Dortmund and Rose will hope Timo Warner could inspire them to a win at Bernabeu.

Matches: Milan vs Zagreb (10:15 PM), Shakhtar vs Celtic (10:15 PM) Rangers vs Napoli, Chelsea vs Salzburg, Real Madrid vs Leipzig, Copenhagen vs Sevilla, Juventus vs Benfica, Maccabi vs PSG, Manchester City vs Borussia Dortmund(All matches at 12:30 AM on Thursday unless specified) Live on Sony Sports Network

12-year period without cooling-off is too long: SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

EMPHASISING on the fact that the idea behind inclusion of cooling-off period was to ensure that vested interests are not allowed to grow, the Supreme Court on Tuesday suggested to tweak the clause in the BCCI constitution. With the BCCI putting forth a strong case for the clause to be modified, the apex court may waive off the cooling-off period.

"A 12-year period without cooling-off is too long. What we can say is cooling-off period kicks in after two terms and what we're suggesting is if you've held one term in state association and one term in BCCI, then cooling off doesn't kick in. But if you hold two terms in state association or in BCCI then the cooling-off period kicks in," Justice DY Chandrachud said while hearing BCCI's plea seeking amendment to its constitution.

As per BCCI's existing Constitution, all the office-bearers who would have to go through a cooling-off period of three years after they complete two consecutive terms of three years each. This is currently applicable to state association or the BCCI or a combination of both. The BCCI wants state and BCCI terms should be treated separately.

Deferring the matter for Wednesday afternoon to pass interim orders, the bench asked amicus curiae and senior advocate Maninder Singh to sit with the stakeholders, prepare a draft and present before the bench. In the proposed amendment, BCCI has sought for abolition of cooling-off period for its office-bearers secretary Jay Shah and president Sourav Ganguly so that they can continue despite completing six years in their respective state associations. Adding that the country could not lose the experience of individuals, Solicitor General said that such changes were suggested after the unanimous resolution passed by the general body of the BCCI. The SG also submitted that the BCCI proposed to remove the age cap of 70 years for those representing the board at the ICC.

"We want this 70 years age to go as far as representation to the ICC is concerned as negotiations have to be done. I'll be dealing with veterans who know each other for 30-40 years. In ICC it's not negotiations or discussions but its all liaising, it's all who's more powerful, who has contacts, who has friends," SG said.

Taking exception to SG's proposal for removing the age cap of 70 years, Justice Chandrachud said, "Let the younger people represent us at the ICC. Let people after 70 give way to the younger generations. There's enough time to do all that till 70. We have AG. There are fantastic lawyers & doctors after 70 but this is sports. Don't tell us that Cricket Australia, ECB have people above 70 in the ICC."

KARMA-N'S BOOMERANG

Post injury setbacks, Indian plots another push in Chennai Open, takes on Bouchard in second round today

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

AT the inaugural WTA Future Stars event in Singapore in 2014, a then 16-year-old Indian girl toyed with the field to win the tournament. Starved of success in women's singles following Sania Mirza's transition to the doubles circuit, it was sort of assumed that Karman Kaur Thandi would eventually lead the way in singles.

Over the next four years following that Singapore title — the Future Stars event was among age-group players in the Asia-Pacific region — she carefully compiled a body of work that ultimately lifted her to world No 196. After excelling in ITF meets, two good tournaments in 2018 earmarked her as the present. At the Nanchang Open (a 250) in July 2018, she won her first main draw match at that level. Having advanced through the qualifiers, she earned 48 points for her effort. Two months later, at the Guangzhou Open, she again won both her qualifying matches to reach the main draw (she had lost to Svetlana Kuznetsova).

In the beginning of 2019, she wanted to jump up a level to the 250s and beyond. So, her first match of the year was the first qualifying round at the Australian Open (she lost). Her next match was against Frenchwoman Chloe Paquet in the first qualifying round at the Thailand Open. Further losses followed in the first time of asking (Acapulco and Miami). Following that loss in Miami, a shoulder injury laid waste to her 2019. The next time she played a competitive match, her ranking had slid from 203 to 587.

From then, it's been a period of struggle for the one-time India No 1. That's why it was so heartening to see her power her way through Pacquet — the Frenchwoman she had lost to previously — in the first round of the Chennai Open Monday.

Injuries are very common for tennis players just because of the very physical nature of the sport. Even then, she had been served a rough hand when she missed seven months of competition in 2019. There was another abrupt halt to her career thanks to Covid. She viewed the break as a positive as it allowed her shoulder to heal properly.

India's Karman Kaur Thandi rallied to defeat France's Chole Paquet 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 in the first round of Chennai Open at SDAT Stadium on Monday | R SATISH BABU

To also prepare herself better, she had a small session with fitness coach Gerald Cordemy (he has worked closely with Serena Williams). "Gerald Cordemy had come down for 3 weeks," she had said in the post-match press conference on Monday. "Those 3 weeks were really intense, only eating, sleeping and training. He has experience at the highest level and working with him helped me learn not just the physicality but also about the mental aspects."

"After reaching the top-200 in 2018, my body took a toll as I was playing a lot of tournaments," she said. "I injured my shoulder and I was away... it was a tough time. Then Covid happened and nothing much happened but I took it as a positive as it gave me time to recover. I'm feeling very good physically now and I'm really happy to be back competing at this level."

The end result was that win against Pacquet. That win was also no flash. Aided by her powerful forehand drives that frequently left her opponent running from coast to coast to hunt it down, she prevailed in a very physical match that went the distance (4-6, 6-4, 6-3).

After dropping to 568 by the end of 2020, she's now up to 359. The win in the first round is bound to give her another push. If she can beat Eugenie Bouchard in the second round on Wednesday, it will be a new high for her — a first ever quarterfinal at this level.

Super Mario: Tennis a family affair for Tatjana

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

AT this year's Wimbledon, Tatjana Maria quietly enjoyed a streak that took her to the semifinals. During that run, she shattered a few records. When she reached the third round at SW19, she became the first mother of two to achieve that feat 'this century' according to the WTA. Her last-four appearance also meant she became only the sixth woman in the Open Era after turning 34. In the process, she also became the oldest first-time semifinalist at a Major in the Open Era.

What is remarkable about all those numbers is that she had given birth to Cecilia, her second child, only last April. At some level, her game has gone up a notch after Cecelia's birth. Out of the two titles she has won till date, one (Bogota) came in April. Ranked 237 then, she won two qualifying round matches before winning five further matches to enjoy a jump of almost 180 places in the world rankings.

Tatjana Maria | P JAWAHAR

In Chennai, the No 4 seed, who eased past India No 1 Ankita Raina 6-0, 6-1, hopes to 'stay for a long time (go deep in the tournament) while also taking it 'match by match'. However long she goes in this tournament — any tournament really — her husband and coach and her two daughters will be next to her on courtside. On Tuesday, Charlotte, her first daughter, Cecelia, who was in a pram, and husband, Charles-Edouard Maria, were sitting next to the court. It's pretty obvious that those three play a big role in her life.

In fact, Charlotte, who doubled up as sparring partner earlier this week, is being online schooled so that they can keep travelling the world. "For the moment, I feel pretty good (about the situation)," she said in the post-match press conference. "(We) like to travel around the world. She is doing online school here also. It works out pretty well. As long as we are happy as a family travelling around the world, we will keep going." One can also say that pregnancy had a big role in her game itself as she went from a two-handed backhand to a one-hander. "Changed when I was pregnant with Charlotte," she said.

Select results (Rd 1, Tuesday): Tatjana Maria bt Ankita Raina 6-0, 6-1, Carol Zhao bt Olivia Tjandramulia 6-1, 6-1, Anastasia Gasonova bt Alison Riske-Amritraj 6-2, 6-3, Nadia Podoroska bt Kyoka Okamura 6-4, 6-3.

RISKE ELIMINATED| Top-seed Alison Riske bowed out in the first round, losing to Russia's Anastasia Gasonova 6-2, 6-3. The American, who had reached the fourth round of the US Open, just couldn't get her rhythm going. It was filled with unforced errors and the passing shots from the baseline were off radar all evening. "I didn't expect the win," Gasonova said after the match. "After the US Open I wanted to take a break," said Gasanova, after her third win over a top-25 player (Riske is ranked 23 in the world).

India women go down 0-3

AGENCIES @ Kathmandu

THE Indian women's team suffered a 0-3 loss at the hands of Bangladesh in its third and final group match of the SAFF Women's Championship here on Tuesday.

MS Jahan Shopna netted a brace for Bangladesh, while Srimoti Sarkar got one to her name, to hand the defeat to India. However, the defeat had no impact on India's semifinal qualification, as the Blue Tigresses had already booked their spot in the last four, where they are set to take on Nepal on Saturday at the same venue.

Bangladesh had the early impetus, and took the lead in the 12th minute through Shopna. India had their first chance of the game on the 19th, when Anju Tamang earned a free-kick 22 yards from goal. Priyangka Devi stepped up to the dead ball, but curled it wide.

WAVING FLAG

From Kanchipuram to Under-17 World Cup, a coach's dream come true

GOMESH S @ Chennai

WHEN Nivetha Doss, a student of Government High School in Kanchipuram, took to football in the late 2000s, the motive was to try and bunk classes. It did not take long for her to fall in love with the sport. She started playing inter-districts and zonals in Tamil Nadu, but little did she know in over a decade she would be with the national team in a World Cup, as a coaching staff and not as a player.

While 30 is generally deemed as the age at which athletes are at the peak of their prowess, Nivetha, at 30, has been named as the assistant coach for the Indian team for the upcoming FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup that is all set to begin on October 11 in Bhubaneswar and Goa. What more, she has been involved in coaching for the better part of the past decade.

How did it all happen though? Like almost every young kid who takes up sport, Nivetha, too, wanted to play at the top level. But lack of pathways and uncertainty over what next meant that she had a decision to make. "After my B.Com, my family wanted me to pursue M. Com and land a government sector/bank job. But it was clear that a desk job is not for me. In football, I didn't have enough exposure to build a playing career. We were playing without any target as to where the journey is going or why we are playing. Then I thought of what I could do further to be associated with Football. That's when coaching came in," Nivetha told this daily.

When she shared it with her family, there was very little resistance. But the onus was on her to face what the future holds. Even then there was very little clarity as to how to become a coach. "For me, someone who gave me the right path and showed direction was Dhanalakshmi. She is a school Physical Education teacher in Avadi, Chennai. She only took care of my education when my family couldn't. When we played zonal, she was our competitor in district division and all. She liked my game, became a family friend. She came to the selection with me, helped me study. She has been the backbone of my life."

Nivetha Doss

She did her diploma at the NIS, and also got the licence with the All India Football Federation and FIFA. Even then, opportunities didn't come knocking. Nivetha was working in a grassroots academy when the Tamil Nadu Football Federation roped her in for the Oorja tournament. On her first assignment, she won gold with the South Zone. With the Tamil Nadu senior team, she won gold in 2018 nationals. She is happy that players who left the sport and got married are now taking up coaching after her success.

The 30-year-old got a call-up to work with the India U17 preparatory camp in November 2021 when she was working with the SDAT. Since then, she has been working with the U17 and India senior teams and is currently with the junior team, preparing for the World Cup in Bhubaneswar.

The AIFF hasn't been in the news for the right reasons over the last few months. But Nivetha said that through the duration where FIFA had banned the federation and there was uncertainty over the World Cup, they were not thinking about it at all. "We felt all the efforts we have put in should not get spoiled. Even if the ban continued there was nothing in our hands. . All these young players are away from home and family and are sacrificing a lot. We made sure they aren't affected and focussed on learning new things."

JEFF BEZOS' BLUE ORIGIN ROCKET CRASHES AFTER LIFTOFF

SPACE

WASHINGTON: An uncrewed Blue Origin rocket carrying research payloads crashed shortly after liftoff from Texas on Monday, but the capsule carrying experiments escaped and floated safely back to Earth.

The incident marked a setback for Amazon founder and executive chair Jeff Bezos' company as well as the space tourism sector, though observers were encouraged by the fact that had people been aboard, they would have likely survived. Blue Origin tweeted a short video clip showing the moment when the capsule fired emergency thrusters to separate itself from its booster rocket early, around a minute after launching from the company's base in west Texas.

"Booster failure on today's uncrewed flight. Escape system performed as designed," Blue said on its website, noting the rocket "impacted the ground" instead of landing upright as it normally does.

The New Shepard suborbital rockets have been grounded pending an investigation, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said, which is standard procedure.

"The capsule landed safely and the booster impacted within the designated hazard area. No injuries or public property damage have been reported," the FAA added.

It was the 23rd mission for the New Shepard rocket programme, named after the first American in space, and the first to end in failure.

NS-23, which had 36 experiments on board, was first set to launch in late August, but was delayed due to inclement weather. The anomaly occurred as the rocket was climbing at 1,126 kilometres per hour at an altitude of about 8,500 metres. The rocket appeared to stall as it experienced technical issue.

The capsule then initiated its escape sequence and outsped the booster, which it engulfed in bright yellow flames. The incident marks a setback for both Blue Origin and the nascent space tourism industry.

But billionaire entrepreneur Jareed Isaacman, who chartered a private space mission with SpaceX last year, tweeted "looks like the launch escape system worked well."

"With so many launches, so many vehicles, engines and boosters in development across the industry, it should not be that surprising to see events like this," Isaacman added.

Blue Origin began flying humans to space on 10-minute there and back rides last year for an unspecified ticket price.

In all it has flown 32 people —some as paying customers and others as guests.

Passengers experience a few minutes' weightlessness and observe the curve of the Earth before the capsule re-enters the atmosphere and floats down.

Before winter, Scholz wants power reforms

ENERGY

BERLIN: German Chancellor Olaf Scholz said on Tuesday he wanted to hurry through reforms to the electricity market to ease the pressure on consumers and businesses ahead of the coming European winter.

Russia has curtailed supplies of gas to Europe following the invasion of Ukraine, sending the price for the fuel soaring and dragging up the cost of electricity in its wake.

Non-gas electricity companies, such as nuclear, solar or renewable firms, had been able to "make extra profits because the price is determined by the electricity produced with gas", Scholz said in a speech in Berlin.

Germany and the European Union have developed proposals to cream off windfall profits from non-gas producers to ease the pressure on consumers and companies buckling under the weight of soaring bills. "We will now push this through with great speed so that we can relieve the burden," Scholz said.

"You can be sure that this will happen at the speed necessary to get it under control this winter," Scholz said.

Germany has raced to fill its gas storage tanks ahead o f the energy-intensive season and rushed to build gas terminals to import new supplies from elsewhere.

Europe's biggest economy has also restarted mothballed coal power plants, and earlier this month decided to keep two nuclear plants on stand-by through mid-April instead of completely ending the usage of atomic energy by the end of the year.

The government has also unveiled a 65-billion-euro plan to ease the pressure of energy-price inflation, including cash for pensioners and students. But warnings are mounting Germany is heading for a recession, with influential think-tank the Ifo institute predicting on Monday the economy will shrink by 0.3% next year.

Economy Minister Robert Habeck said a downturn could be prevented if energy prices were brought down, although it would be "hard" and "demanding". The sharp increase in the cost of electricity was the "biggest challenge" for Germany's flagship auto industry, the VDA industry association said.

Around 95% of companies surveyed said they were heavily or very heavily burdened by rising prices.

UN blames fossil fuels for disasters

ENVIRONMENT

With weather disasters costing $200 million a day and irreversible climate catastrophe looming, the world is "heading in the wrong direction," the United Nations says in a new report that pulls together the latest science on climate change. The World Meteorological Organization, in the latest stark warning about global warming, said weather-related disasters have increased fivefold over the last 50 years and are killing 115 per day on average – and the fallout is poised to worsen. UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres cited the floods in Pakistan, heat waves in Europe, droughts in China, the Horn of Africa, and the United States – and pointed the finger at fossil fuels.

Rachita Ram on her film Monsoon Raaga

DAY'S DIARY

Sweden rejects euro

Sweden held a referendum on adopting the euro on this day in 2003 The 'No' campaign had led in opinion polls in the months before the vote

THE HISTORY

In 1997, the Swedish Government said it would not adopt the euro from the start in 1999 and that the decision to join would be taken by the Swedish Parliament, the Riksdag, following a referendum

THE DEBATE

The ruling centre-left Social Democrats took an early lead in advocating the single currency while the two remaining centre-left parties firmly opposed it

PRECEDING EVENT

The referendum was held a few days after Anna Lindh, the Foreign Minister and a leading exponent of the 'Yes' campaign, was murdered

SMALL STEPS TO BIG DREAMS

B'luru actor-singer Madhuri Braganza, on her role in Pathonpatham Noottandu, a Malayalam movie directed by Vinayan

MONIKA MONALISA

AT a time when people go out of their way to brag about their achievements, Madhuri Braganza has been quietly enjoying all the success and positive feedback that her latest Malayalam movie Pathonpatham Noottandu has been getting. Set in 19th century Travancore, the story is based on the life of Arattupuzha Velayudha Panicker, a warrior who fought against social injustices.

The actor and singer from the city plays the role of Katha, who is one of the main catalysts in the movie. "I am basically the partner of the villain in the movie. It is a negative role but I don't mind doing such roles at all. It's all about acting and eliciting emotions with the audience," explains Braganza, adding that though it is a supporting role, it is an important one. "It's because I, in a way, am the one who starts all the chaos," laughs Braganza.

Though the role has a short screentime, Braganza, who was last seen in the Kannada movie Kushka, was ready to take the risk of picking this role because it made sense for her career. "A lot of people used to tell me not to do small roles, and suggested I only do leads at this point in my career. But I don't want to go by that rule. For example, I have done a film where I had just one song with Mohanlal. Things like this play a pivotal role in one's career," says Braganza, who is currently touring for her play Joseph and The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

Apart from the role, an important reason for picking this movie was her keen interest to work with director Vinayan, who has given some unforgettable movies. "The main attraction for me was working with director Vinayan. I was willing to see how he directs me as an actor. I knew I would learn a lot. Since it was on such a big scale, I learnt so much about production," says the actor, adding that the way the movie is directed, every actor plays an important role.

Although she has now done eight Malayalam movies, she surely had her initial hiccups with the language. "I am part Mangalurean and part Goan and I have done like six Malayalam films till now. I have learnt the language by working in films, through YouTube videos or a friend's mum who helped me right in the beginning. There are a lot of nuances in the grammar. But I knew Tamil so it helped me learn Malayalam," recalls Braganza, adding that at this point she can just about hold a conversation in the language. Her next Malayalam movie is Varam, where she plays the lead, which is set to be released in October.

Ramesh Aravind speaks to CE about his newly-released book Preetiyinda Ramesh and his honorary doctorate

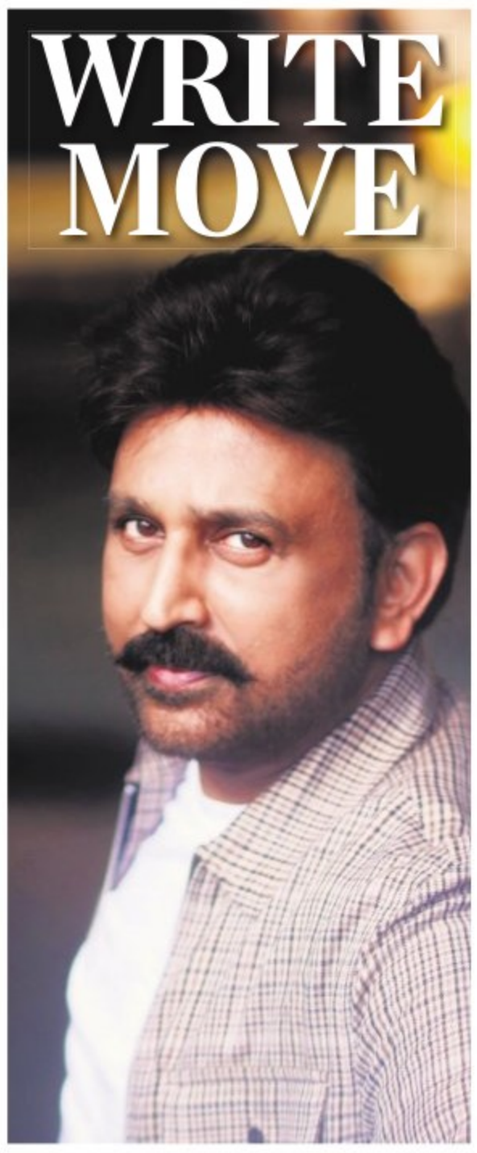
WRITE MOVE



A SHARADHAA AND TUNIR BISWAS

WHEN you lead the life of an artiste, it is hard to describe what you do to most people who ask. An artiste can mean an actor, a singer, a writer or even a painter. It's tough to explain what exactly you're passionate about with just one word. It's even harder for those artistes who have multiple passions. Kannada actor Ramesh Aravind is a prime example of that. Recently, the multi-faceted actor has come out with another book Preetiyinda Ramesh about which he chats with CE.

Aravind feels this book encapsulates all the things he has been saying for years and is brought into one cohesive structure. "So, the first 20 pages of the book contain all the important moments that led me to become an actor, a writer and a director. It also contains five things that helped me in my life and I believe it will help others as well," says Aravind. The actor further detailed the intricacies of the first chapter. "So, the first chapter contains independent episodes of moments in my life that I've experienced or valuable lessons that I read or heard about. You can read a paragraph, stop and continue later," shares Aravind.

To make it easier for the reader, the book is filled with drawings depicting many experiences described in the book. So if you're reading about a particular incident, chances are there will be a drawing about that event to help you visualise better. There is a drawing of the chapter summaries as well. For someone who has scripted the national award-winning film Hoomale (1998) (while also starring in it), writing a book also came across comfortably as this was another form of storytelling. "It's essentially storytelling. I didn't want to convolute the plot and did all I could so that readers won't struggle through it. It is also why there are so many drawings throughout the book," says Aravind.

The book has been doing well. So much so that the book's second edition has already begun printing. Aside from the release of his book, the actor is also being conferred an honorary doctorate from Rani Channamma University on September 14. "We're at a stage where we accept everything that comes along the way. It feels good to be recognised. In education, there's a mark sheet to show that but in our field, something like this validates our hard work. But it comes with increased responsibility. So there's a warning also," laughs Aravind.

The America-America actor advises that consistency is key to success. "All I have done is do my work diligently every day. I don't have a background. I had to just do it consistently. And all the good things in my professional life have come through it," concludes Aravind.

FIT BIT

URDHVA UPAVISTHA KONASANA

(UPRIGHT SEATED ANGLE POSE)

This is an intermediate seated pose where you need to balance your body on sitting bones while actively stretching your arms and legs upwards. The spine plays an important role in this pose, with its active engagement in maintaining balance and keeping your back upright. It is also called Merudandasana (Spinal Column Pose).

STEPS

- Sit in Dandasana (Staff Pose), back straight and legs stretched in front of you.
- Bring your feet towards you by externally rotating your hips and joining them at the soles. It is Baddha Konasana.
- Then, hook your first two fingers around the big toe.
- Now, you can lean back slightly and start extending your legs straight upwards and separate them sideways as far as you can.
- Your toes should be pointing upwards, knees straight. Your legs will be at an angle from the torso.
- Pull up your kneecaps, activate your quads to keep the legs straight. Lift the chest, the neck neutral.
- Keep your gaze forward, at a fixed point, to align the neck.
- Rolling your shoulders back helps keep your spine straight, erect, and long.
- Now, engage your core and tailbone for balance.
- Hold this pose for 3-5 breaths.
- If you are comfortable holding it more, be there for 15 long breaths.
- To come out, gently bring down your legs by bending them at the knees and back to the original position.

BENEFITS

- Improves balance and posture by lengthening the spine.
- Stretches the hamstring muscles and keeps the hip bone in alignment.
- Opens up the hips and groin, gives more range of motion.
- It's a chest opener.
- Encourages the diaphragm to expand more with each breath, increasing breath awareness.
- Helps to relieve constipation.
- Strengthens the pelvic floor.
- Helps to relieve minor sciatica symptoms by opening the hips and extending the hamstrings.
- Stretches and releases stiffness in the leg muscles, waist, hips and pelvis, keeping the lower body light and strong.
- Can help with concentration.

LIMITATIONS

People who have issues with hamstring, a groin pull or tear, lower-back injury, hernia, slip disc, sciatica, recent surgery or injury in the lower back, spine, or knee, problems in the neck, shoulder, hip, chest, elbows, blood pressure or breathing, and women during pregnancy or menstruation, avoid this asana.

THE SENSATIONAL '70S

IN 1970, Balamuralikrishna visited the Tyagaraja Aradhana in Thiruvaiyaru. Here, he rendered 'Enta muddo Enta Sogaso' in Ragam Bindumalini. This created a rather unnecessary fuss. 'A huge criticism fell on him. Several people wondered what this Kriti was, several others joked what is this Bindumalini, it must be the name of one of his girlfriends,' recollected Thiruvaiyaru P. Sekar, one of the students who got drawn to Balamuralikrishna's music and had a lifelong association with him. Sekar's father, T.N. Pattabhishekam, was the headmaster of the Thiruvaiyaru School. The fact is, very few in Thiruvaiyaru and among the festival committee had the knowledge of the kind of repertoire of Tyagaraja Kritis that Balamuralikrishna had.

In 1971, the government of Tamil Nadu recommended Balamuralikrishna for the Padma Shri award. At a glittering ceremony in New Delhi, President Varahagiri Venkata Giri (1894–1980) honoured him. The Tyagabrahma Mahotsava Sabha in Thiruvaiyaru was scouting for someone who could assume office and head that organization. There was a problem with some of the older officials, and many of them had quit. After much deliberation, Balamuralikrishna's name was suggested by the then treasurer Thillaisthanam Vasudevan. Call it luck or fate, he was now being welcomed into the place that he hadn't entered for a decade. Saint Tyagaraja must have finally heard his prayerful appeal. His term in Thiruvaiyaru brought about a huge set of changes. 'Balamurali sir would come to Thiruvaiyaru, and before the meeting, there would be a prayer song in the Sannidhi. I remember him singing "Sri Ganapathini". I had nothing to do with the meeting, but was there as an awestruck fan. I was waiting outside when Mr Panchanadham signalled for me to sing. I couldn't imagine singing in front of Balamuralikrishna sir. I was literally shivering with fear and excitement. I somehow mustered courage, closed my eyes and sang. He came out of the Sannidhi, I fell at his feet and took his blessings. He enquired who I was. Mr Panchanadham told him that I was a local boy. He then enquired where I was learning music from. I told him from my mother and immediately expressed my wish to be his student as well,' recollected Sekar, about his first encounter with Balamuralikrishna. 'His student Rajalakshmi Santhanam appreciated my singing and gifted me two of his books. I had an image of him with me which I asked him to autograph. He obliged. I was on cloud nine,' added Sekar.

Before that the Aradhana was a fairly unorganized affair. Artistes came and went and performed as they wished. 'Sometimes a senior artiste would perform nonstop for as long as he liked and there was no one to object, just in case it hurt the ego of the artiste. At other times, a scheduled event would be pushed ahead because some senior artiste showed up without prior announcement and demanded a slot to sing. Sometimes there were members in the committee who would silently sell a slot for money that they pocketed. Two veteran members, Sethuraman and Ramaswamy, had suggested pricing slots, the money from which would go into the festival fund,' recollected Sekar. Balamuralikrishna decided to put a stop to all of these things. He introduced a life membership scheme, wherein artistes who enrolled were given a chance to perform. After some initial hesitation, all artistes gladly supported this initiative. Some of the first to come on board were Semmangudi Srinivasa Iyer, M.S. Subbulakshmi and Sadasivam, Maharajapuram Santhanam, Brinda-Mukta, K.V. Narayanaswamy, D.K. Pattammal, T.N. Krishnan and others. In addition to Carnatic musicians, there were several from other fields who supported his initiatives, including film actors Bhanumathi Ramakrishnan and Vyjayanthimala Bali. 'I was a regular to the Thiruvaiyaru Aradhana every year along with my mother. In fact, I even learnt two Tyagaraja Kritis from Balamuralikrishna sir,' recollected Vyjayanthimala about her association with the Aradhana and Balamuralkrishna.

Next, Balamuralikrishna spoke to the authorities at the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams to sponsor the building of a guest house that could accommodate artistes who visited the festival. He managed to convince the government of Andhra Pradesh to donate a sum of ₹2,00,000 for the project. 'He changed the presentation format of the Kutcheris. He introduced the system of having two stages side by side. As one artiste would come to the end of the concert, the second artiste would ascend the other stage. This way there would be no time wasted and the concerts would go on smoothly,' recollected Vidhushi Rama Kausalya, a lifetime resident of the Thillaisthanam Agraharam who belongs to the Thillaisthanam Shishya Parampara of Saint Tyagaraja. Kausalya's grandmother was a disciple of Panchu Bhagavatar along with Narasimha Bhagavatar, who were called the 'Thillaisthanam Brothers'. They were Thillaisthanam Rama Iyengar's prime shishyas who kept the Thillaisthanam Shishya Parampara of Saint Tyagaraja going.

At the same time, he started familiarizing himself with everybody in and around Thiruvaiyaru who was associated with the Aradhana. Carnatic vocalist Sandeep Narayanan took me to his ancestral home in the Rayampettai Agraharam in Thiruvaiyaru. His grandfather, R. Varadarajan, and his grand uncle, R.R. Narayanan, were active members helping with the Aradhana. In fact, Narayanan's own ancestral house would host artistes like Ariyakudi Ramanuja Iyengar and Madurai Mani Iyer in the heydays. Narayanan's son N. Madhavan recollected Balamuralikrishna's visit to their house very fondly.

Things we must be thankful to the queen for

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon

(Writer, comedian)

WHILE the central government decided to mourn queen Elizabeth's death, social media wasn't as kind. She ruled over a country that colonised most of the world, looted and enslaved people, and fought hard to ensure nations did not win their independence.

All my life, I have met people who would argue that the British gave us the railways. That they taught the nation English, and gave us our one national adhesive - cricket. The British created hill stations around the country, giving middle-aged and teenage couples a break from the sun and sweat of the plains. It's an argument that has often baffled me. The aforementioned factors weren't the result of British benevolence. Indian Railways was created to transport supplies for the empire. English helped the colonists traverse the many linguistic challenges that India posed. And the hill stations helped British officers catch a break from the heat of India. It's like saying Katappa killed Bahubali so that he could merge with God!

I find it absurd that we continue to give the British credit even though they pillaged our nation for two centuries. But then, I wondered - was I being myopic in my view? Surely there must be some advantages to the British empire. Further introspection made me realise that there were in fact SOME benefits of British rule in India.

If the British hadn't kept us poor for centuries, we would have nothing to look up to in life. No aspirations as a nation, no foreigners visiting us through NGOs. What fun is it to be a rich economy, after all? We wouldn't have poor, malnourished kids roaming all over the country. How would we then take those moving pictures for our Instagram feed? We must thank the queen for helping us up our photography game. The British also carefully manipulated food stocks in India and caused massive famines in India. But I guess we must be thankful to the empire for inadvertently giving Indians a lean body that gym-goers today aspire to achieve!

Before the British arrived, India was the land of a hundred languages - each with their own scripts, grammar, and literature. The British empire united the nation by introducing us to English. This gave entire generations an inferiority complex, ensuring that we don't become egoistic, and remain humble. From a country whose languages offered no confusion between the written and spoken word, we became a nation that struggles everyday with words like 'colonel' and 'debris'. To add to our woes, we have to tolerate the English commentary by Sanjay Manjrekar every time there is a cricket match. What a great move by the ever-benevolent queen!

The British ensured that we went from an export-surplus nation to one that was heavily dependent on imports to survive. What a masterstroke! They took away all those boring khadis and cotton apparel, and introduced us to suits and trousers to be worn in 40 degrees heat. We also got Western toilets, and with them came the nightmare of walking into a five star hotel and finding only tissue papers available! For the rest of the world, 'Elizabeth' is a royal name. In India, it is used as sarcasm - 'Oh! As if you're some Elizabeth. Go in an auto!'.

The British made us a nation insecure of our own culture - so much so that Indian brands hire foreign models and call themselves Allen Solly and Peter England. They emptied our coffers for centuries. But I guess we wouldn't have gotten the amazing show The Crown without her. And for all these reasons, we must all be thankful to the queen!

Marcus Dunstand to direct All My Friends Are Dead

CE FEATUES

ALL My Friends Are Dead, a new horror film from Film Mode Entertainment is in the works and Marcus Dunstand is the director of the project. Dunstan is a famous horror screenwriter known for his works in Feast and the Saw film series. He will replace his Saw colleague Kevin Greutert who was initially signed to direct the flick.

All My Friends Are Dead will revolve on a group of college friends whose fun weekend out partying at the most happening music festival of the year takes a wrong turn. Their weekend starts out on a bright note as they snap a luxury Airbnb accommodation at a giveaway price. Unfortunately, their lucky charm is unable to keep them from the repercussions of their own sins which ultimately leads to their deaths, one friend at a time.

Though Dunstand is most popular for working in the slasher subgenre, he made his claim to fame with the 2005 horror comedy Feast, which was his screenwriting debut.

Casting for the upcoming horror flick has also begun with newcomer Jade Pettyjohn being considered for a starring role. Pettyjohn, who has already begun negotiating for a role in the film, played Lexie Richardson opposite Reese Witherspoon in the Hulu drama, Little Fires Everywhere.

All My Friends Are Dead is written by Josh Sims and Jessica Sarah Flaum. The film is yet to have a release date.

Rachita Ram talks about her role, working with director Ravindranath, and the phenomenal actor Dhananjay is

'MY ROLE AS A SEX WORKER IN MONSOON RAAGA IS HANDLED WITH DIGNITY'

A SHARADHAA

SRAVINDRANATH'S directorial Monsoon Raaga gives an image makeover for Rachita Ram. The actor, who has appeared in many different characters in a 9-year-long film career plays a sex worker for the first time in the film. Talking to her ahead of the release, we ask her initial reaction when the role was pitched to her. "Sorry, what's the profession of the character?' This was my first reaction. I knew it was going to be a challenging one. But while doing such roles, the gaze and execution of the team also matters. Since the offer was from director Ravindranath and producer Vikhyath with whom I had worked in Pushpaka Vimana, I went ahead," says Rachita Ram, who is satisfied with the way the role has turned out. "This is my second outing with the director. Both him and his team had a great clarity about what they wanted and were confident in their making," adds the actor.

A still from the film

Rachita shares that the makers have presented the character with dignity. "When people think of a sex worker they usually get reminded of someone with a bold attitude, wearing revealing clothes and sporting dark lipstick. However, my role Baanu in Monsoon Raaga is presented beautifully and in a dignified manner."

The actor further states that she didn't have to do a lot of homework as it is not a biopic. "It is like every other role. My character has a reason why she takes up this profession. She is both innocent and mature. Monsoon Raaga is a story of two beautiful souls – a sex worker and a common man – falling in love. The deeply emotional tale is handled with great sensitivity," she explains.

"The film being set in the retro era is another attraction," says Rachita, adding, "We get to experience the feel of being in '70s and '80s films, and getting into such setup and with a vintage puff sleeves and floral printed sarees gave me a very unique experience. We have shot the film during the monsoon season, every scene has rain in the backdrop. The music of Anoop Seelin adds a lot of depth to the film."

Monsoon Raaga has Rachita Ram paired alongside Dhananjay for the first time. "He is a phenomenal actor, and I'm glad that we finally worked together for Monsoon Raaga. He considers every scene a challenge and competes with his co-stars. I found him to be very spontaneous on sets, and his hold on the language is impressive. I had a wonderful experience working with him. Off the set, he is an actor with abundant knowledge, and he keeps you engaged with various topics. Everyone on the sets shared that out pair looks good from the first shot. I hope the audience also feel the same way in the theatres," she signs off.

'Kapala is based on my personal experiences'

Editor-turned-director Vinay Yadunandan talks about his upcoming horror flick, which revolves around siblings

CE FEATUES

YOUNG director Vinay Yadunandan is making his debut with the horror film Kapala, which is slated to hit the theatres this week. The film comprises artistes with theatre background, and new faces, has the Ondu Shikiriya Kathe actor Abhimanyu Prajwal and anchor-turned-actor Prateeksha Gowda in the lead roles. The cast also has names like Aryan Chaudhary, Sushma Gowda, Giriraj BM, Ashok Hegde and Yamuna Srinidhi.

"The film which happens around 3 siblings has horror as its major element. The screenplay travels in 3 different timelines – present, 10 years before, and 70 years before. How they all connect and the challenges the brothers face form the crux of this drama," says Vinay, who is said to have employed his experience as an editor on television to make his first feature film. "This is a story based on a few personal experiences I have seen and heard," he mentions. Arvind, who was the initial producer of Kapala passed away half way through the film due to cancer. The project was later taken up by his sister, Soumya Shetty, who is bankrolling the project under Oscar Production. The film's music by Sachin Basur and cinematography is handled by Praveen M Prabhu.

CE FEATUES

EMMA D'Arcy of House Of The Dragon fame, Harry Lawtey, and Ellie Bamber have joined the cast of the upcoming political thriller Anna. The film will be a dramatic take on the life of Russian journalist Anna Politkovskaya, a frequent critic of Vladimir Putin's regime.

D'Arcy will star as Vera, Anna's daughter, while Lawtey will play Anna's son Ilya. Bamber will feature as her protege, Elena. They join Maxine Peake, who stars as the titular Anna, Jason Isaacs, who will play her husband Sacha, and Ciarán Hinds, who will portray her editor, Dmitry Muratov. The film will be directed by James Strong.

Politkovskaya wrote for Novaya Gazeta and she made a name for her by covering the Second Chechen War; her exposure of the human rights abuses committed by both sides in that conflict made her a target of the Russian state. She faced death threats, harassment by security forces, and even poisoning before she was murdered in 2006. While five men were convicted of her murder in 2014, the people who hired them to kill her are yet to be brought to justice. Her life has been the subject of several documentaries, including Eric Bergkraut's Letter to Anna and Marina Goldovskaya's A Bitter Taste of Freedom.

English actor D'Arcy has starred in a number of British productions, including the paranormal comedy series Truth Seekers and the 2020 Keira Knightley film Misbehaviour, before their role in Game of Thrones prequel House of the Dragon. Lawtey currently stars on HBO's Industry as working-class aspiring banker Robert Spearing; he can next be seen in the upcoming Christian Bale thriller The Pale Blue Eye. Bamber has appeared in Nocturnal Animals, Pride and Prejudice and Zombies, and true crime thriller series The Serpent.

Anna (previously announced under the title Mother Russia) will be produced by Miriam Segal and Paul Brennan of Good Films Collective, in collaboration with K Jam Media and its principal Kia Jam, and Richard Alan Reid of BuzzFeed Studios.

Emma D'Arcy, Harry Lawtey, and Ellie Bamber join Anna

PIONEER OF FRENCH NEW WAVE CINEMA JEAN-LUC GODARD DIES AT 91

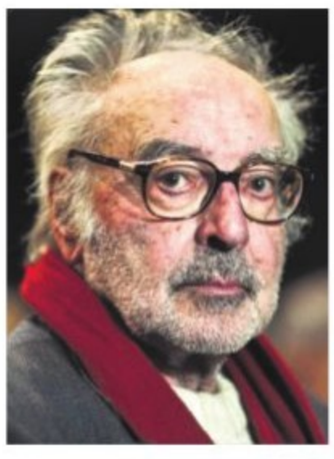
CE FEATUES

LEGENDARY filmmaker Jean-Luc Godard dies at 91. The French-Swiss director rose to prominence in the '50s and '60s for his experimental style of filmmaking. Often credited as the father of French new-wave cinema, Godard still revered traditional Hollywood films.

Starting his career as a film critic, Godard experimented with short films in the 50s before breaking into feature films in the '60s. He is most known for films like Breathless, A Woman is a Woman, My Life to Live, The Little Soldier, and First Name: Carmen. With a filmography spanning decades, the director has garnered a number of prestigious awards.

He won the Golden Lion award at the Venice Film Festival for his 1983 film First Name: Carmen and a Golden Bear at the Berlin Film Festival for his 1965 Sci-Fi Noir film Alphaville. In 2010, Jean Luc-Godard was awarded an honorary award by the Academy Awards but he did not show up at the ceremony to receive the awards.

He was known for his evocative narrative style that revolutionised the way story structure was conceived for films. Godard was outspoken about his political beliefs and philosophical understandings. He expressed Marxist ideals and existentialist philosophy through his films. His Marxist beliefs were evident in films like La Chinoise, Pierrot, Une femme mariée, and Week End. An inspiration for several generations of filmmakers, Jean-Luc Godard has left a rich legacy that will continue to be an unavoidable part of film history.



Tusshar Kapoor-starrer gets release date

CE FEATUES

TUSSHAR Kapoor and Naseeruddin Shah are starring together in the upcoming thriller, Maarrich. The film is set to hit theatres on December 9.

Written and directed by Dhruv Lather, Maarrich is a whodunit where Tusshar portrays a brave police officer. Naseeruddin Shah has a pivotal role in the film. The makers announced the release date with the logo of the film and the message – Catch the Evil. Maarrich will be Tusshar Kapoor's second outing after the Akshay Kumar-starrer Laxmii, as a producer under his banner Tusshar Entertainment House.

Talking about the film, Tusshar says, "This film is very close to my heart for multiple reasons. Maarrich is my second film after Laxmii as a producer and I am also going to be reuniting with Naseeruddin Shah saab after a very long time. The film has challenged me as an actor on many levels as it's very different from the work that I have been associated with earlier, I hope the audiences like this new shade of mine."
